A WINNER!

Miss California, Lucianne Buchanan of Claremont, was named winner of the swim suit competition Friday night at the Miss America Pageant in New Jersey.

Priest expelled for baptism

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Jesuit priest who baptized a baby whose mother advocated the right to abortion has been expelled from the order.

The Rev. Joseph O'Rourke, called the explosion "a scandal," carried out by "impenetrable autocrats," and charged that his superiors "were made bagmen and errand boys for higher ups" in Rome.

He said he would remain in the priesthood.

The controversy arose last month when the Catholic Church refused to baptize the 3-month-old son of Carole Morreale of Marlboro, Mass., saying there was no "moral certitude" the child would be brought up a Catholic.

Mrs. Morreale, 20, had been quoted by a local newspaper as saying she supported Bill Baird, a champion of the right to birth control abortion. Baird had come to Marlboro to address the Town Council on establishing an abortion clinic there.

O'Rourke, who lives with a community of Jesuits on Manhattan's Upper West Side, baptized the child outside Marlboro's Immaculate Conception Church, whose priests had refused to carry out the rite.

Hurricane winds hit 110, zeroing in on Gulf Coast

MIAMI—(UPI)—Hurricane Carmen, its winds at 110 miles an hour and growing, bore down on the Gulf Coast Friday night and forecasters tried to pinpoint the storm's target.

Emergency preparations began all along the coast, ravaged only five years ago by Hurricane Camille.

The New Orleans Weather Bureau said gale winds and tides up to four feet would reach the mouth of the Mississippi by Saturday afternoon. Oil companies began removing personnel from offshore rigs, and housewives started a run on hardware and grocery stores for candles and food.

Small boats fled into port or up rivers for shelter and the Red Cross began moving disaster workers into place.

The Naval Air Station at Pensacola flew 147 of its planes inland, and the Lucianne Buchanan of Claremont was named winner of the third phase of the swim suit competition at the Miss American Pageant in Atlantic City, N.J., Friday night to become one of the top contenders for the beauty crown in tonight's televised finale.

The 21-year-old Miss California was in high spirits Friday and enthusiastic about the pageant, saying that the contest has been a great thrill and she will be happy regardless of whatever the outcome may be.

"The girls are fantastic," she told the Progress-Bulletin Friday by telephone. "They're all, oh, really nice. It's just amazing."

Miss Buchanan, won the Miss Pomona Valley title earlier this year, then second place in the Miss California competition, then the Miss California title when the first Miss California retired due to ill health.

The 50 Miss American contestants were divided into three groups. The girls in each group competed with each other in the three special events: evening gown, talent, and swim suit.

Tonight the judges of the contest will total the points given each girl in the three competitions to select the top 10 contenders for the Miss America title. Miss America will be chosen tonight from the top 10 competitors.

The selection of Miss America will be televised tonight at 10 o'clock on KBC, Channel 4.

Whether she wins the national title or not, Miss Buchanan has a full schedule ahead of her.

As Miss California, she will begin her official schedule in the state starting two weeks from now. Among other events, she can look forward to a cruise to Hawaii in early November.

In any case, she will not return this year to Cal Poly, where she has been an education major. A graduate of Claremont High School, Miss Buchanan was to enter her senior year at Cal Poly this fall, but winning the Miss California title upset all of her previous plans.

"It would be, of course, wonderful," she said of winning the Miss America contest. But she added: "I am very happy whatever the outcome."

Speaking of her competition, she said: "You know, it's a funny thing. Every girl is so unique and so special, you can't tell at all who is going to win."

She stated that there really is a "sisterhood" of Miss America contestants and that she admires the other state titleholders.

If she does not become Miss America, Lucianne Buchanan will return to Santa Cruz on Monday. She will spend a week in Santa Cruz before returning to Claremont.

Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. A.R. Buchanan of Claremont.

Weather

Low clouds and local fog near the coast overnight and early morning hours, otherwise fair. High and low temperatures, 98 and 64. The extended outlook Monday through Wednesday calls for afternoon cloudiness with chance of a few showers, otherwise fair weather, continued warm.

Secret meetings to end U.S., Cuba rift told

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Representatives of Cuba and the United States have held secret meetings in Switzerland to explore ways of ending the 13-year-old rupture in relations between the two countries, diplomatic sources said Friday.

The Organization of American States (OAS), meanwhile, took the first step toward lifting its own Cuban quarantine.

Diplomatic sources said Cuba's foreign minister, Raul Roa, talked with U.S. officials in Berne, Switzerland, during an official visit to that country between Aug. 27 and Sept. 3.

State Department and White House officials said they had no knowledge of any such meetings. But sources insisted several contacts took place during that eight-day period between Roa and U.S. representatives whom they did not identify.

In the OAS, the governments of Costa Rica, Colombia and Venezuela officially set in motion the diplomatic process that could lead to an end of the Cuban embargo when OAS foreign ministers meet in Quito, Ecuador, Nov. 11.

The three Latin nations asked the OAS council to meet quickly in Washington to discuss the issue and prepare recommendations for the Quito conference. The council agreed to do so.

The Council, which meets at the Pan American Union in Washington, will have at least two preliminary sessions this month — one on Monday and another Sept. 19. The latter meeting will be attended by several Latin American foreign ministers.

The council will then recommend to the Quito meeting whether or not the diplomatic and economic sanctions imposed on Cuba in 1964 should be lifted. The drive to end the embargo is believed to have a good chance of success.

Leaders agree to free Cyprus war prisoners

NICOSIA (UPI) — President Glafkos Clerides and Vice President Rauf Denkash, leaders of the rival Greek and Turkish Cypriot communities, agreed Friday to release Cypriots taken prisoner in the Cyprus conflict.

"They agreed to set up immediately a scheme for the general release of prisoners and detainees," said the communiqué released after their three-hour meeting at the tightly-guarded Ledra Palace hotel in Nicosia.

The communiqué said that lists of prisoners and detainees would be completed and sent without delay to the International Committee of the Red Cross.

In connection with this, the communiqué did not differentiate between prisoners in the hands of Greek and Turkish Cypriots or those held by the invading Turkish forces.

The two Cypriot leaders also agreed to exchange lists of missing persons and make every effort to trace them.

Political observers expressed satisfaction with the meeting. They said it would help ease tension and contribute to the opening of talks on Cyprus' political future.

Even as the meeting was in progress there was some firing across the "Green Line" dividing the Turkish and Greek sectors of Nicosia. But it stopped soon after it began.

Clerides and Denkash, boyhood chums, smiled as they shook hands for news cameras when they met at the bullet-pocked Ledra Palace Hotel on the "Green Line" separating the two communities in Nicosia.

Fire destroys grove in S.D.

Fire destroyed a eucalyptus grove and scorched approximately two acres of grass Friday evening in San Dimas near a Girl Scout camp.

The fire, at 146 W. Arrow Highway, began shortly after 4 p.m. Friday and burned for nearly two hours before six engine companies and camp crews could bring the blaze under control.

The firefighters were aided by two helicopters that made water drops on the blaze.

There were no injuries. The cause of the fire is under investigation.

HISTORICAL TOUR

An official at Independence National Park in Philadelphia, left, points out the crack in the liberty bell to President Ford during his visit Friday. Ford later pledged that he 'would go after and lick' inflation before July 4, 1976.

Indicate kidnaped man, 83, alive

Photos of Echeverria's father-in-law released

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Leftist terrorists distributed photographs and taped messages of President Luis Echeverria's father-in-law Friday and his family said they took it as an indication the 83-year-old man is still alive.

Jose Guadalupe Zuno Hernandez said on the tapes he had been treated "magnificently" by his abductors but neither the tapes nor the pictures were dated.

In Guadalajara, Mexico's First Lady Maria Esther Echeverria said "the indications that my father is all right encourage the family after days without any news."

The extremists — members of the People's Revolutionary Armed Forces (FRAP) — had vowed to "execute" Zuno by midnight last Friday, 37 hours after they seized him. Echeverria, who refuses to deal with terrorists, rejected their demands for $1.6 million cash ransom and the release of 15 jailed extremists.

The poor quality photographs showed Zuno standing alone and also flanked by two hooded men. On a wall behind him was a poster with the initials FRAP and two crossed automatic weapons.

The same envelope in which the pictures were sent to three news organizations contained a lengthy propaganda attack on the "bourgeois" Echeverria government and a miniature cassette with a taped conversation between Zuno and his kidnapers.

Zuno answered 18 questions, praising his own kidnapping as "a magnificent and perfectly human" act and criticizing Mexican banks, "Yankee imperialism" and his son-in-law's government. Authorities said Zuno had probably been forced to read a prepared script.

Aims to pursue and 'to lick this public enemy'

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — President Ford, speaking in the shadow of historic Independence Hall, promised Friday to win the battle against inflation in time for the nation's 200th birthday.

At a bicentennial gathering commemorating the 200th anniversary of the first Continental Congress, Ford said Americans in 1974 are oppressed just as the colonists were 200 years ago. He called inflation "the cruelest kind of taxation without representation."

"The tyranny of the British Parliament and crown in 1774 animated our ancestors," he said. "The tyranny of double-digit inflation is our double enemy in 1974."

The President acknowledged that some believe he is moving too cautiously against inflation.

"But," he said, "I hope no one will underestimate the fighting ability of Americans today the way some did in 1774. I warn you, as wise old man Franklin did, that if we do not all hang together we will certainly hang separately."

"We are going after the public enemy of inflation in 1974 and we will lick him before July 4, 1976," Ford said.

Ford's 20-minute address was laced with historical references appropriate to the setting.

Independence Hall and the Liberty Bell stood across the street from the yellow and white striped circus tent where Ford spoke before an estimated 1,500 governors, congressmen, public officials and invited private guests. Just down the block was Carpenter's Hall, where delegates are currently reenacting the Continental Congress that set in motion the U.S. Revolution.

Quoting patriots John Adams and Patrick Henry, Ford urged the audience to "study carefully the characters and qualities of the men who founded this nation" and "show the world that the character and quality of the American people has not changed."

Ford called the early patriots "inflation fighters" who were meeting to wage economic warfare against Great Britain long before the revolution broke out in earnest.

"The inflation fighters of 1774 were not much different from the inflation fighters of 1974 who started a series of conferences in Washington yesterday," he said, referring to the economic summit discussions now under way.

"Then as now there were no easy answers. Then as now they had to depend heavily on popular understanding and popular support."

Clemency board to rule on Viet resisters

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — President Ford has decided to create a special clemency review board that will play a key role in his conditional amnesty program for Vietnam war resisters, a White House spokesman said Friday.

Press Secretary J.F. TerHorst told reporters Ford already has started selecting members of the board, which will review overall policy on draft evaders and military deserters and will rule on special cases involving war resisters who do not fit either of those two main categories.

TerHorst said the board would be similar to — but larger than — the three-man panel set up by President Truman after World War II to consider amnesty cases.

He said Ford's panel would consist entirely of civilians, probably would include no more than seven members, and would handle cases from across the nation. There would be no separate state boards.

Up to 50,000 youths might qualify to seek amnesty under Ford's program.

Most details of the amnesty program are understood to have been worked out, although Ford is waiting for clarification of some proposals from the Justice Department and the Pentagon before making his final decisions.

TerHorst said that the President hopes to unveil the program early next week, but might not complete the selection of the membership of the board by that time.

The President reportedly wants a plan that will be simple to implement, and is striving to work out some of the legal complications which might impel some of those who fled the country not to seek amnesty.

There were also indications that Ford was seeking to soften the plan so it would not have punitive overtones.

The President was expected to include in the program an offer of amnesty to those who are willing to contribute 18 months of public service to earn their way back into American society.

For sixth straight year

Walnut water tax rate cut again

For the sixth consecutive year, Walnut Valley Water District officials have reduced their tax rate. The recently-approved tax for 1974-75 will be five cents less than last year.

The district's board of directors adopted a final $1.1 million budget calling for a tax rate of $1.15 per $100 assessed valuation. About $5.5 million of the budget will be used for purchase of Colorado River water from the Metropolitan Water District.

The 11 per cent increase over the 1973-74 budget of $1.02 million was caused by "spiraling costs of day-to-day operation of the district," says Gary Arant, administrative assistant.

Arant added that the approved tax rate is applied against land assessed valuation only, in accordance to state laws.

The 1974-75 land valuation was set by the county assessor at $47.22 million and has increased by $2.86 million, or six per cent over last year's $44.36 million.

The district's levy assessments totaling $292,746 show a one per cent reduction compared to last year's tax effort, Arant said. Monies provided by the tax rate are used to service bonded indebtedness and provide major capital improvements "that cannot be financed totally by revenues coming in from water sales and developer contributions."

The tax rate drop was caused by the increase in land values that "came about due to the rapid growth and development over the last year, plus the ensuing increase in water consumption and water revenues," Arant added.

Increased costs due to the growth have been kept at a minimum because of unaccounted for water loss control programs, combined with "unhampered operation," he said.

The Walnut Valley Water District services half of the City of Walnut, the eastern half of City of Industry, Diamond Bar, and a small portion of West Covina and western Pomona.

New royalty bill for singers 'going too far'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Facing almost certain defeat, new royalties for wealthy singers like Frank Sinatra and Dean Martin were denounced in the Senate Friday as "going a little too far."

As the Senate began debate on the first revision of copyright laws since 1909, a sharp controversy erupted over granting recording artists and record companies a royalty each time a record is broadcast or played in a jukebox.

Sen. Sam J. Ervin, Jr., D-N.C., backed by Commerce Committee chairman John O. Pastore, D-R.I., moved to strike the highly controversial section from the 168-page copyright bill.

A vote on Ervin's motion was tentatively scheduled for Monday. If it fails, Ervin and Pastore plan to ask the Senate to return the bill to the Judiciary Committee for more hearings.

In any event, the copyright bill has no chance of congressional passage before the adjournment. The House has no companion bill.

Arguing against the royalties, Pastore cited the cases of Sinatra and Martin and said the bill would provide them and other stars "a few cents every time their records are played."

"I don't think they need that," Pastore said. "I think that's going a little too far. There are too many hungry people in the country."

Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott, who said he has worked for the royalties since 1944, replied "anybody can be hungry, including an artist who has only one hit." But Scott virtually conceded defeat, saying "I must admit he (Ervin) has the votes."

BOMBING SUSPECT — Muharem Kurbegovic, accused of the bombing at Los Angeles International Airport which claimed the lives of three persons, walks to court session Friday where he found his case will be turned over to the L.A. County Grand Jury. The bomb explosion injured 35 persons.

Grand Jury to try bombing suspect

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The case of a man accused of planting a bomb at International Airport that caused three deaths and injuries to 35 other persons will be turned over to the county grand jury, it was announced Friday.

District Attorney Joseph Busch said that "due to the complex nature of the case" it would be presented to the grand jury starting Sept. 18. The district attorney would not elaborate on his statement, pointing out that a court gag order still was in effect.

The suspect, Muharem Kurbegovic, 31, appeared in Municipal Court Friday charged with three counts of murder. Judge Antonio Chavez continued the preliminary hearing until Oct. 8 when the court was informed the public defender assigned to Kurbegovic had been replaced by attorney Daye Shinn.

Kurbegovic was arrested Aug. 20 at a Hollywood hamburger stand where he allegedly was attempting to deposit a tape recording concerning the bombing in a restroom.

The bomb exploded in a locker at the terminal Aug. 6. Following the explosion an anonymous caller told the Herald-Examiner he was the persons being sought and had set the bomb to protest the fatal shootings of two Mexican aliens by police.

Police were successful in tracing the suspect and had him under surveillance when he was arrested.

Jacobsen motion rejected by judge

DALLAS (UPI) — U.S. District Court Judge Robert M. Hill Friday rejected a motion by federal attorneys to drop charges against attorney Jake Jacobsen in return for Jacobsen's testimony against former U.S. Treasury Secretary John B. Connally.

In an 18-page opinion Hill said special Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski could not stop federal prosecution of Jacobsen if Jacobsen would testify.

The Austin attorney and former aide to President Lyndon B. Johnson is charged in connection with an $825,000 misappropriation from a savings and loan association in San Angelo, Tex.

Jacobsen has already pleaded guilty to a reduced perjury charge in connection with the Connally case. He was expected to testify that as a representative of the Associated Milk Producers Inc. he offered to give Connally $10,000 in return for influence in the White House to increase milk price supports.

Connally has been arraigned under a five-count indictment alleging bribery, perjury and obstruction of justice.

Texas Attorney General John L. Hill asked Judge Hill

Thursday to reject the government's petition for dismissal of the charges.

"My office was asking a court not to grant dismissal in connection with a federal indictment but the court should see fit to at least recognize the potential jurisdiction of the state," Hill said.

"That was handled, I assure you, without any backbiting between the United States attorney's office in that district and our office. It was not done to undercut anyone."

Hill, secretary of state when Connally was governor of Texas in the 1960s and a close friend of the former governor, said personalities were not involved in the matter even though the ruling appears to weaken the government's case against Connally.

New Zealand leader picked

WELLINGTON, N.Z. (UPI) — Wallace E. "Bill" Rowling, a 46-year-old former army officer who once taught school in the United States, became prime minister of New Zealand Friday and promptly pledged no change in the foreign policies of his Labor government.

The youngest prime minister in New Zealand's history, Rowling has close links with the United States where he taught junior high school in Seattle, Wash., for a year when he won a Fulbright scholarship in 1953. In 1967, he returned to the United States to study tobacco marketing under a State Department grant.

Rowling was elected leader of the government by parliamentary members of the Labor party to succeed Norman Kirk, who died a week ago of a heart attack at the age of 51. He will serve as prime minister until the next elections, currently scheduled for November, 1975.

McVittie registration charge

Demo meeting looms

The central Democratic committees in Los Angeles and San Bernardino counties are expected to hold a joint executive session Monday or Tuesday to discuss voter registration charges levied against Bill McVittie, Democratic candidate in the 65th Assembly District.

Sam Curtis of Rialto, chairman of the San Bernardino County committee, said he is seeking to contact the Los Angeles County chairman to arrange a time and location. Most probably, he noted, the meeting will be held at the Democratic headquarters in Montclair.

McVittie is accused of illegal registration practice by his campaign offering deputy registrars a 40-cent bonus for each Democratic voter registered. The registrars are paid 10 cents for each voter registered by the county.

"The question has arisen over the legality of the situation," said Curtis. "We would like to check into this. We have the attorney general's 1962 ruling, which is an opinion, not a code. I think the ruling needs to be clarified."

McVittie, he added, will be invited to attend the joint meeting.

Curtis said committee officers may also discuss the need of raising the amount paid for registering voters. "If the county Board of Supervisors increased the rate paid to deputy registrars, then outside sources wouldn't have to entice people to register voters. The county payment should be enough to meet expenses."

Meanwhile, two Democratic candidates seeking election in the West End of San Bernardino County said they had no part in the "bonus" payments.

State Sen Ruben Ayala of

Chino said he hadn't even started a drive to register voters and did not have the money to pay any bonuses.

But Ayala said he had talked with a member of the county counsel's office who advises the registrar of voters office. "He told me personally that McVittie's people had contacted him prior to getting involved, and it was his opinion there was no county prohibition."

"In checking with the state law, it states that a county may pay deputy registrars for registering people. It does not state who else can pay" he noted.

If the McVittie workers were registering only Democrats, then they would be in trouble, said Ayala. "But they weren't. McVittie even put this in the paper."

"We should encourage registration of all parties. And I think we should pay the deputy registrars enough to meet their expenses."

Mike Stover, campaign director for Jim Lloyd, candidate for the 35th Congressional District, said Lloyd had met Aug. 17 with Ayala and McVittie to discuss joint areas of campaign cooperation. A number of areas was discussed, including voter registration.

But the candidates couldn't come to agreement on some procedures and processes, he noted. "We have never advocated nor accepted the idea of direct subsidy to deputy registrars. We were sure that people in both counties wouldn't need any incentive other than paid by the county registrar of voters."

Southern governors claim

GOP White House hopes aided by Nixon's resigning

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Governors of a number of southern states which voted heavily for Richard Nixon in 1972 say the resignation of Nixon strengthened the GOP's chances of holding the White House in 1976.

The governors of 17 southern states and the Virgin Islands begin a four-day annual meeting Sunday at the Lakeway Resort on Lake Travis, and presidential politics is expected to be one of the major items of discussion even though it isn't listed on the official agenda.

The governors generally agree that Watergate and the resulting Nixon resignation will have little impact on races within their own states this year.

"I think the resignation of Nixon has strengthened the chances of the GOP to keep control of the White House in 1976," said Florida Gov. Reuben Askew.

"If President Ford does a good job, particularly in responding to our severe problem of inflation, he would be a formidable candidate with all the advantages of an incumbent."

Gov. James E. Holshouser Jr. of North Carolina, a Republican, predicted the political climate for the GOP will improve, but said, "We had every reason to be optimistic regardless of what was happening in Washington." Holshouser said he believes Ford will be elected to a full term as president in 1976.

Gov. Edwin Edwards of Louisiana, a Democrat, said

Watergate has had no detrimental effects on the GOP in Louisiana and would not likely affect the re-election chances of the state's one Republican congressman, Rep. David Treen.

"Nixon's resignation and Ford's ascendancy have, if anything, helped Republicans," Edwards said.

Oklahoma Gov. David Hall, who lost his bid for re-election, said Watergate's effects in Oklahoma are minimal. He added, "I believe a strong Democratic ticket in 1976 can catch the imagination of the American people and win elections."

Kentucky Gov. Wendell Ford, also a Democrat, said, "It has always been my contention that 1976 would not be an easy election year for the Democratic party."

"Democrats must earn the right to have voter support which would give the party a presidential victory, and this will come only through performance these next two years."

Hall said Democrats stand a chance to pick up one congressional seat in Oklahoma this year, and Gov. Dale Bumpers of Arkansas gave the same assessment of Democrats' chances in that state.

Disney movie copter crashes

CAMARILLO, Calif. (UPI) — A helicopter being used to film a scene for a Walt Disney Productions television show crashed and burned in a citrus orchard Friday but the pilot and cameraman were thrown clear of the flaming wreckage.

The pilot and cameraman, the lone occupants of the rented copter, were hospitalized with injuries. Witnesses said the craft apparently hit an air pocket when descending and burst into flames after it plummeted to the ground.

The helicopter was totally burned.

The pilot, George Nolan, 29, and the cameraman, Carl Marquard, 60, who was on a platform outside the helicopter, were taken to a hospital by a paramedic crew which was standing by during the filming. Both are from Los Angeles.

Witnesses among the ground film crews and actors waiting for the shooting of the scene about 300 feet from where the copter crashed, said the craft suddenly plummeted while it was coming down near a hillside.

City closing in on last phase of water expansion project

Completion of the last reservoir in La Verne's multimillion dollar water distribution system is expected to get under way this month.

The City Council awarded three contracts totaling $375,000 for the construction of the White Avenue pumping station the completion of the Williams Avenue Reservoir and the laying of connecting pipes.

"We're just two more items away from the completion of the system," City Manager George Caswell told the council. "Then we'll be able to prove to the community that the $2 1/2 million in bonds they voted four years ago has been used effectively."

The job for the construction of the pumping station was awarded to Pylon, Inc., who turned in a low bid of $244,330.

Construction of the roof of the Williams Avenue reservoir was given to the E. M. Penn Construction Co. on a low bid of $99,990, and Ace Pipeline Co. won the bid for the construction of a 20-inch transmission main on a low bid of $55,500.

Kenneth I. Mullen, the city's consulting engineer, said all that remain are the construction of a 24-inch transmission line between the Foothill reservoir and the La Verne Water Association's system, and a well collector line, which is now being designed by Andreason Engineers.

When completed the system will quadruple the city's water supply and holding capacity.

City imposes building fees

The Montclair City Council has adopted a resolution establishing a building permit issuance fee of $3 and a building division investigation fee of $25.

The two charges were approved by resolution only and were not included in the council's formal approval of the 1973 Building Code, the most recent code released by the International Conference of Building Officials.

The $3 charge covers the initial issuance only. An additional charge is levied according to the assessed valuation of the building constructed.

The investigation fee is to cover costs incurred by the city for house examinations requested by lending agents to assure structural soundness.

Police under fire over double murder

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A City Councilman, in a motion following the double murder of a USC couple earlier this week, demanded Thursday that the Police Department assign more officers to "prevent such violent, senseless murders."

Councilman Robert J. Stevenson said, "It seems unbelievable that the lives of young people can be and are being snuffed out on the streets of Los Angeles while this city boasts one of the most modern and efficient police departments in the country."

Acreage in Apple Valley staked out for owners

My husband and I need help.

Last February a salesman from a firm based in San Diego took us up to Apple Valley and sold us 2 1/2 acres of land. He showed the acreage to us.

When we went back in four or five weeks we were told at the firm's office that the land showed us wasn't the right parcel. It wasn't the land described on the escrow instructions.

The salesman said he would have the land surveyed and staked at the corners.

So far nothing has happened. Every time we call him, he says it is being worked on and he will call back. He never does.

About three weeks ago I called the company's San Diego office and talked with the assistant manager. He said he would check on it and call back the next day. There was no call.

I called again last week and left a message. Still nothing happened.

We would like to know where our land is. My husband has had a heart attack since we bought this land. We would like to put our trailer on it and spend some time up there. — Mrs. A. W., Pomona.

We wrote to San Diego. The reply came from the president of the company.

He also wrote an apology to you. He explained that he had to wait until the salesman returned to town to get things straightened out.

A civil engineer was staking out the corners of your land, he said, adding that the circumstance that it was not staked out when you purchased it did not hinder your right to title.

You went to Apple Valley the following weekend. When you returned you reported that the land had been staked out as promised and, finally, you know where it is.

A man came to our door last February selling an atlas. The cost was $15. We paid half at that time and received a receipt. Then we mailed in the balance of $7.50 on March 6 upon request.

We haven't received our atlas yet. Three letters to the company brought no results. — Mrs. O. C., Claremont.

We could understand your thirst for knowledge and wrote immediately to Publix Circulation Service, Inc., the firm your check was addressed to.

James H. Riley of the firm answered. He said Publix is no longer in business.

He told us he has sent in a new order for your atlas and you should receive it very shortly.

Future inquiries involving Publix should be directed to the Magazine Publishers Association, Inc., 375 Lexington Ave., New York, 10022. The association will contact the publisher for adjustments.

I bought a 10-cent trial size of No Streak glass cleaner and polish from Pay Less Drug Store in Diamond Bar. I liked it and have tried to get more but have been unsuccessful.

The label reads No Streak Co., Pomona, Calif. I cannot find a listing in the phone book. The drug store has no record of where the cleaner was obtained.

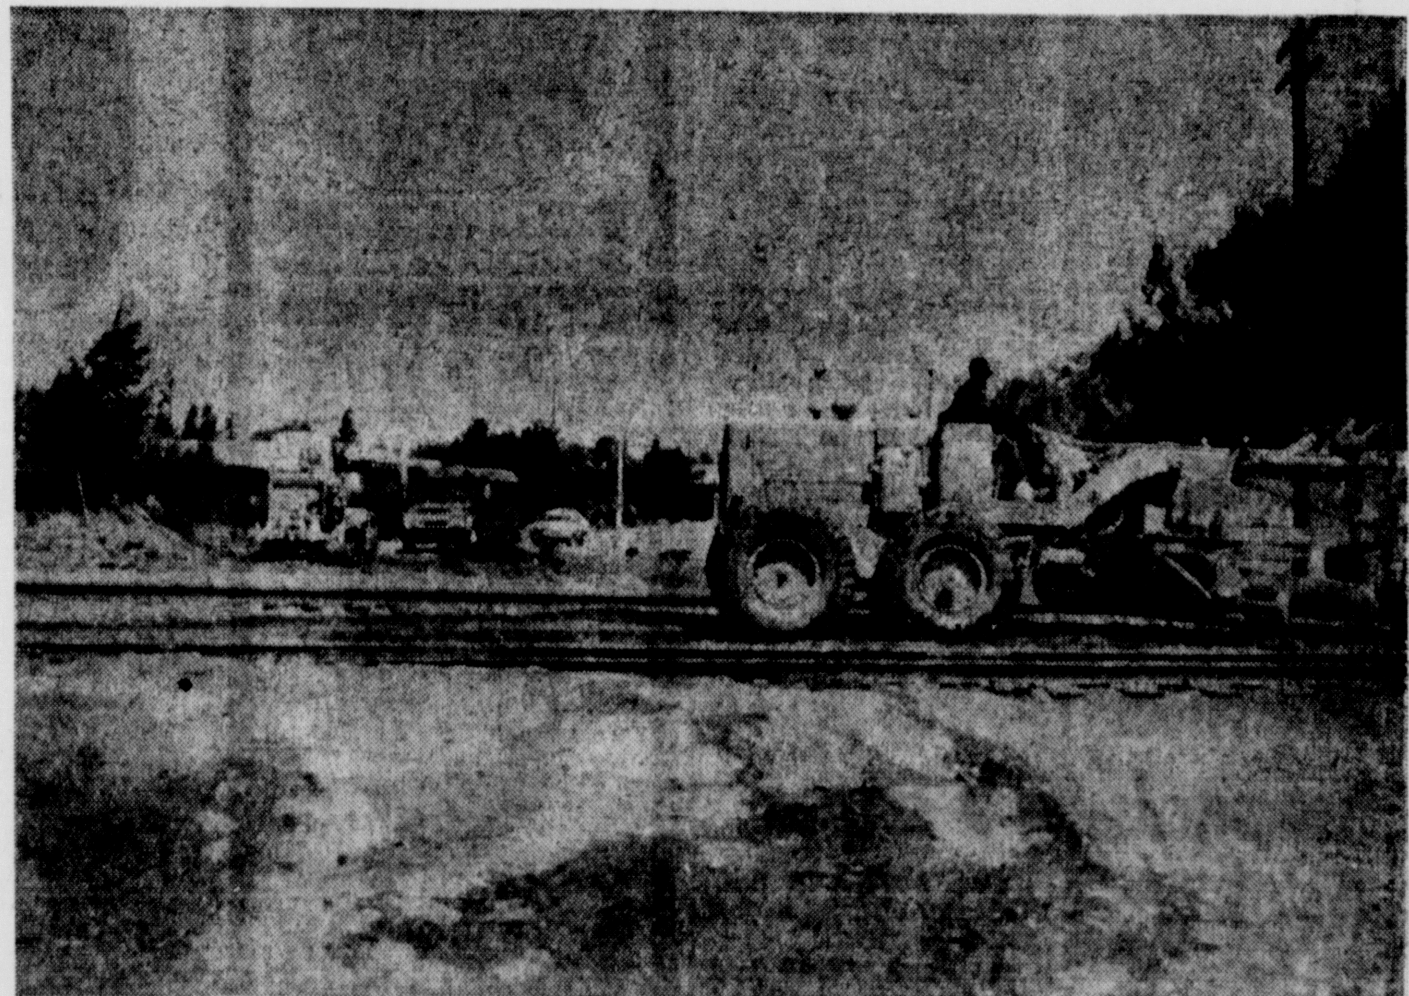

I hope it is possible for one of your readers to see this and let me know how to obtain more of the product. — E. J., Diamond Bar.

The Pomona City Clerk's Office has no record on No Streak.

A Pay Less representative said the store purchased a supply from a man from the state of Washington who was trying to establish a distributorship here. He disappeared and there was no answer at the local number he had been using.

Pomona Library reference people tried at our request to find an address for No Streak in the principal cities of Washington. They weren't successful.

Maybe No Streak expired when the penchant for nudity was born.

NEW RAILROAD CROSSING

A scraper for Alan M. Hess of Ontario grades a railroad crossing under construction for the new Cambridge Avenue being built northward from Arrow Highway to connect at the tracks with the street running southward from Bonita Avenue in Claremont. The project was held up while Santa Fe Railway took out a set of tracks and raised the roadbed of another. Responsibility of installing crossing gates and signals falls to Southern Pacific. City Public Works Director Paul Cook said that the street cannot be opened for public use until the gates are up and operating.

33 lots at Sage School site

Planners okay Rosemount tract map

The Claremont Planning Commission has approved a tentative tract map of 33 lots for Rosemount Estates on the former Sage School site south of the Thompson Creek flood control channel.

The four commissioners present at the Tuesday night session also approved a conditional use permit for the residential unit development.

In other actions the commission continued a tentative tract consideration for Wright-Major Co. which wants to convert apartments at 633 E. Foothill Blvd. to condominium units.

The commission denied a request for a variance which would have allowed parking in the required sideyard setback and reduction in the required rear yard setback in the development.

The commission left tabbed a request for a conditional use permit for Carl Karcher Enterprises to build a drive-through restaurant at 950 W. Foothill Blvd.

Environmental Quality Board chairman Sally Vogel appealed a negative declaration of an environmental impact statement issued by city Planning Director Donald G. King on the project.

Chrysler hints price hike near GM figure

DETROIT (UPI) — Chrysler Corp. Chairman Lynn Townsend said Friday that price increases on its 1975 model cars and trucks would be close to the $420 average set by Ford and General Motors.

But the Chrysler chief executive said a price increase of up to $500 would be "very modest indeed" in light of steadily escalating material and labor costs. These increased $643 a vehicle in the first nine months of 1974, he said.

Townsend in concluding remarks at the No. 3 automaker's press preview, said final prices will be released in the next few days and dealers have been given permission to begin selling the new models. Ford and General Motors began selling their '75s in the last two weeks.

Townsend said the close to $500 figure floated by GM before the Ford administration criticized it was realistic. GM trimmed that by $54 to close to an average $450 for cars and trucks, including $20 for higher destination charges.

Ford won't release its final figures until Monday, but preliminary increases averaged $418 on cars and trucks.

"We'll be right in the ballpark with our two competitors," Townsend said. In the 1974-model year, Chrysler boosted prices by an average $554 a car over final 1973 model prices, including higher destination charges and changes in equipment.

Even with the new prices on the '75s, Townsend said, "we are still far short of recovering the steadily increasing costs of building automobiles."

Steel has increased 39 percent in the past nine months while aluminum costs per vehicle are up 43 percent and copper 45 percent. The cost of federally mandated equipment added another $112 a vehicle and labor has increased $134.

Townsend like GM Chairman Richard C. Gerstenberg, said any savings achieved by removing federally mandated equipment like the ignition interlock would be passed on to customers. But he warned they might never see a decrease because it probably would be absorbed in a general price increase caused by inflationary pressures.

The Chrysler chief executive promised even more price hikes if inflation continues. He said there shouldn't be a consumer rebellion because "the public has become used to higher prices."

Mormons giving up 15 hospitals in 3 states

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (UPI) — The Mormon Church Friday announced it is turning over its 15 hospitals in three states — facilities valued at $61 million — to a non-profit corporation not controlled by the church.

The hospitals in Utah, Idaho and Wyoming have a total of 2,092 beds.

The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints estimated replacement value of the facilities at more than $107 million. It said the new corporation will own or operate the hospitals, and will assume all current indebtedness to the church — about $28 million.

William N. Jones, a Utah business executive, was named chairman of the new non-profit hospital corporation which will run the former church facilities. A name for the corporation has not been selected.

"The growing worldwide responsibility of the church makes it difficult to justify provision of curative services in a single, affluent, geographical locality," the church said in announcing the decision.

The church's first presidentcy said the move is not indicative of loss of interest or concern for the sick and afflicted.

"To the contrary, it provides greater flexibility as the church assists members and others everywhere with their temporal needs."

Heath denied a report that the missing weapons included Redeye missiles.

Army admits missile thefts

HEIDELBERG, Germany (UPI) — Ninety antitank missiles disappeared Aug. 28 from the nearby U.S. Army base at Miesau, headquarters said Friday in response to a Washington report that U.S. weapons were being pilfered for Arab terrorists.

"The loss of 90 antitank missiles was discovered during a physical check of a bunker at Miesau Aug. 28," said Col. Harry A. Heath, Army public affairs information officer in a statement. "The bunker in which the missiles were stored had been tampered with and the missiles removed."

Heath denied a report that the missing weapons included Redeye missiles.

U.S., France vie for deal

Showdown on arms pact

BRUSSELS (UPI) — Four Western European defense ministers set off this weekend on a shopping trip to Paris and Washington for what is being called "the arms deal of the century."

Belgium, Holland, Denmark and Norway are in the market for 350 lightweight jet fighters to replace their aging F104 Lockheed Starfighters. The leading candidates are the French Mirage F1 M53 and two American planes — the Northrup YF17 Cobra and the General Dynamics YF16.

At stake are not only immediate contracts worth $2 billion or more but a competitive momentum that could be worth $20 billion in eventual sales. Equally important, both the French and U.S. governments are making the deal a test case for whether the four nations put "European unity" above "Atlantic cooperation."

The Belgian, Dutch and Norwegian defense ministers will be in Paris over the weekend with French Defense Minister Jacques Soufflet. With the Danish minister, they will go on to Washington Wednesday to see U.S. Defense Secretary James Schlesinger.

Belgium and the Netherlands must decide soon which plane to take, while Denmark and Norway can wait a year. One effect of the Dutch-Belgian choice may be the decision in December by the U.S. Air Force itself whether it will take the YF16 or the Cobra.

The sources said Dutch Defense Minister Henk Vredeling wants to ask the French and U.S. governments several key questions:

—Whether they can guarantee a maximum price, as a hedge against inflation or cost overruns.

—Whether the U.S. and French air forces themselves will promise to use the plane the four nations choose.

—Whether the French or U.S. governments will stand behind contracts guaranteeing that the four countries will get part of the work — mainly assembly — of the planes.

Both sides already have offered the four nations from 60 to 80 percent of the work and have promised to incorporate Belgian-Dutch specifications in the final product.

French officials say the choice of the Mirage would help the European air industry, solidify European unity and might even lead France to rejoin NATO military activities. U.S. officials, on the other hand, said the purchase of a U.S. plane not only would help offset U.S. military spending in Europe but would be a symbol of Atlantic solidarity to counter isolationist tendencies in Congress.

Nominee's tax talk irritates Reagan

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan, criticizing Democratic gubernatorial nominee Edmund Brown Jr., said today "an increase in taxes in California is unnecessary, period."

Reagan did not mention Brown by name but noted the candidate to succeed him has said he would not increase sales and income taxes of consumers during the first year of his administration.

Brown has left open the possibility of new general taxes in later years, and said he favored closing tax "loopholes" of the oil and insurance industries in his first year.

Reagan, in a speech to the annual Sacramento Host Breakfast, told the audience of businessmen, civic and governmental leaders that "an increase in taxes in California is unnecessary, period."

Reagan said if the next governor followed his lead and arranged the state budget along the lines of his defeated tax limitation ballot initiative state government could live indefinitely within its income.

Wire taps on non-sleepers

By JOSEPH FIRMAN

How would you like to be paid $15 to sleep for a night?

Most of us don't need that much urging. After a hard day at work, and the kids finally off to bed and quiet, bed looks like Paradise.

But up at Palo Alto this summer, Dr. William C. Dement, director of the Stanford University Medical Center's sleep disorders clinic, with the help of psychologist Bob Phillips, has been conducting a large-scale study of insomnia—the inability to go to sleep. Reading the report of the project, I could hardly keep my eyes open.

Some 85 men and women were chosen to do their sheep-counting in a dormitory humorously dubbed Hotel Insomnia. (When sheep have trouble sleeping, do they count people?) More than 800 souls applied—the question is how many wanted to be guinea pigs for science and how many were just pigs for the $15.

The project was no bed of dozes, however. The scientists plugged into the non-sleepers like the White House tapes. Electrodes were implanted under the skin and on scalps, ear lobes and eyelids (I may NEVER get to sleep again!). These were hooked up to an electroencephalograph, a machine that measures brainwaves and muscular activity while the sleeper sleeps. Sounds like IBM acupuncture.

Who could sleep with all those needles stuck in you and taped to your—well, here and there. I wouldn't close an eye. As for muscular activity—I'd be so motionless in the sack they'd check me for rigor mortis.

This Dement-ed, non-sleep survey, like most such scientific experiments, is doomed to failure because of what we might call "laboratory conditions." Take a guy who can't sleep nights, plug into him like a PBX board and say "Rock-a-bye, baby." The healthiest and weariest of humans couldn't go to sleep under those conditions. What Dement and Phillips must do for a truly insightful survey is to create conditions that the average Head of Household faces when he is trying to sleep. And these are a lot worse than a bunch of electrodes.

Hotel Insomnia should have, for example, a lot of shrill, unruly children racing up and down its corridors, whinning to go potty or be told a story, fighting over squeaky tricycles and occasionally breaking something valuable. There should be several large females with voices like a cavalry bugle to pace the halls through the night calling out "I smell smoke!" To complete the picture, she should be followed by a loudly barking dog.

The patient himself, of course, is the key. The true insomniac has six cavities that his restless tongue checks throughout the white hours. He is overdrawn at the bank; he has developed a truly bad slice on the golf course; and his car engine now emits an unnerving and unidentifiable whine. It helps if he is hungover.

Given such typical conditions of a suburban family man, you do not need electrodes in his ear lobes to learn why he stares wide-eyed at the ceiling all night.

Still, that $15 he gets for not sleeping at Hotel Insomnia would buy him a bottle of good whiskey which would go a long way toward solving a lot of his problems, starting with insomnia studies.

Bad bid calls for good play

By Oswald & James Jacob

A reader from Winnipeg asks, "How bad was my seven spade bid? It turned out to be very expensive since my partner was one down, but he would have made it if either spades or diamonds had broken."

As a matter of general use of the Blackwood convention, North should not have bid seven spades. The bid was also bad from the result standpoint, but if South had been up on his toes the grand slam should have been made.

It really wasn't too tough a hand if South had just tried to count to 13 tricks. He could count 10 tricks in top cards. He could ruff two hearts in dummy to come to 12. The best way to get a 13th trick would be to set up a fifth diamond and it was possible to do all this provided diamonds broke better than 5-1 and all the trumps didn't show up in the same hand.

South should lead a trump at trick two and another back to his hand at trick three. Then he should ruff a heart; cash dummy's ace and king of diamonds; ruff a diamond; ruff his last low heart; ruff a fourth diamond; discard dummy's two small clubs on the last trump and the high heart remaining in his hand, and make the last two tricks with dummy's ace of clubs and fifth diamond.

Beth Israel picnic part of new-families-welcome

Temple Beth Israel of Pomona will hold a "Vintage Year Picnic" on Sunday to welcome Jewish families that are new in the community. The picnic will begin at 11 a.m. and will include special events and a baseball game. Participants are asked to bring their own picnic lunches.

According to Dr. Herbert L. Eisen, president of the temple, an all-out effort is being made to welcome new Jewish families. In addition to the picnic, all Jewish families who have settled into the Pomona Valley since January of 1974 will be welcome guests of the congregation at the Holy Day Services which will begin with the New Year's (Rosh Hashana) Eve service on Sept. 16.

Interested persons are asked to contact the temple office at 629-2774 for a courtesy card of admission.

Is Ford capable of reweaving religion into American fabric?

By DAVID POLING

The departure of Richard M. Nixon from the White House will occupy political analysts for the remainder of the year and historians for the rest of the century. Since the matters of church and state still control our society, it is appropriate to consider the impact of President Gerald R. Ford — in religion as well as politics.

It is apparent to many Americans that the new President is a man of deep personal convictions, a serious member of the Episcopal Church, and is willing to make prayer and public life a natural experience. His references to the Almighty in his first addresses were not the suggestions of a speech writer but the normal affirmations of a spiritual personality. His first weekend in office found President Ford not in some entertainment center in Florida or California — but attending his neighborhood church in suburban Maryland. It is the opinion of many who know this man from Michigan that his occupancy of the White House will mark a quiet return of the religious dimension — not only in Washington but across the United States.

Consider these clues. Of all the associations, organizations and groups to which Gerald Ford has belonged in his 20 years of public life, a congressional prayer group has been his most determined priority. The new President reflects the deep piety that is nourished and sustained in so many Michigan households. Indeed, one of his sons is presently preparing for the ministry at Gordon-Conwell Seminary. The concerns of church and Bible and the Christian life are familiar to this family and their friends.

With this background, what sort of changes should we anticipate in the affairs of church and state? For a president, by neglect or enthusiasm, hostility or cordiality, does affect the religious atmosphere in the United States.

1) Look for an end to the formal worship services in the White House. Nothing was more irritating to the religious community of North America than the Sunday services held for an "invited" audience, a command performance of President Nixon. Apologists argued that the Secret Service wanted this, it was easier to handle security. Whatever, President Ford and his family will move out of this religious imprisonment and reinstate the public attendance at church that every other president has followed.

2) Just as this administration has declared an open and honest style of leadership in the matters of state, so will the channels be extended to the dozens of churchmen of every denomination and faith to hear their concerns, answer their inquiries, and seek their counsel. The Nixon administration, and the last years of the Johnson, saw an almost complete put down of church leaders and religious issues. Vietnam was the reason, but now a new beginning will do much to restore a balance in these matters.

Almost 20 years ago, overlooking the Hudson River at Morningside Heights, a new building was being dedicated.

Some two dozen denominations and church groups would inhabit this New York skyscraper. The largest tenant was to be the National Council of Churches, with the World Council taking an entire floor.

As the impressive ceremonies came to an end, Dwight David Eisenhower stepped forward and the cornerstone of the Interchurch Center was laid by the 34th President of the United States. For a man of faith and in touch with the spiritual life of the people, it was a normal, natural event to share.

With Gerald Ford we will see the quiet but forceful return of the religious dimension.

Beef imports hit lowest figure in nearly 5 years

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Beef imports plunged in July to the lowest monthly figure in nearly five years but probably will recover near the end of the year, Agriculture Department experts said.

Spokesmen said imports of meat covered by a currently-suspended import control program dropped to 59.4 million pounds in July, 44 per cent below a year earlier and the lowest for any month since November, 1969. Beef makes up the bulk of the meat covered by the program.

Because of the July decline, officials said total imports for the first seven months of the year reached 615.2 million pounds, 12 per cent below the same period in 1973.

A department expert added, however, that imports from Australia and other countries are expected to pull out of their July slump during the last three months of the year in time to bring total 1974 imports to somewhere near the current official forecast of 1.2 billion pounds. This would be about 11 per cent below 1973 imports.

The late-1974 recovery, the expert said, is likely because producers abroad will be forced eventually to slaughter cattle which have been held back during recent months of low U.S. prices. Officials added the sharp dip in July shipments was due primarily to reduced sales by Australia and New Zealand, the two largest foreign meat suppliers for the U.S. market.

Golden age of American radio alive in Far East

TOKYO (UPI) — Mary Livingston still puts down cheapskate boyfriend Jack Benny on the airwaves of Japan.

Our Miss Brooks pursues the sexless Mr. Boynton across their high school campus, and hasn't caught him yet. Twice weekly, a sinister voice begins yet another "tale well calculated to keep you in suspense."

American radio of the pre-television era is alive and well on the Far East Network (FEN), which is the hometown radio station for about 128,000 members of the U.S. military and government families in Japan and Okinawa alone.

"We have 160 different old programs in our archives," says Sgt. Jim Ewing of Bartlesville, Okla., FEN's program director in Tokyo.

"In the case of Jack Benny, we have 94 episodes and could run one a week for two years. We have 200 of 'Suspense' and could keep it going four years."

All are on discs rather than tape. The majority were first broadcast in America in the 1950s, before television replaced radio as the medium of fresh comedy and drama. FEN has no record of the original broadcast dates.

The wit of the radio writers of 20 or more years ago wears well. People still chuckle at the gags. "Romance" and "My Favorite Husband," each broadcast once a week, retain their grip on housewives.

"If we take them off for broadcasts of sports events from the states, we invariably get a lot of telephone calls about it," Ewing said.

Interest in radio is especially high for about 26,000 members of American military and government families in the Tokyo area.

They are completely cut off from English language television. On Okinawa, and at outlying bases on Japan's main island of Honshu, American TV is available to base families about 12 hours a day.

Monday through Friday, FEN offers the old shows for 30 minutes in the morning and 55 minutes at night.

An audience survey showed the evening program was FEN's most popular offering. It contains two shows, each originally written for a 30-minute time slot.

"Dragnet" and "Escape" are available on Monday, followed on Tuesday by "Suspense" and "21st Precinct."

Wednesday is laugh night, with Jack Benny and Jim Hawthorne's comedy theater. Thursday's offerings are "Fort Laramie" and "Have Gun, Will Travel." On Friday you can hear "Theater Five" and "Broadway Is My Beat."

Some of the most ancient voices speak on Sunday on "Golden Days of Radio," a patchwork of excerpts from shows dating to the 1930s.

W.C. Fields drank his last martini in 1946. But on FEN he still is heard once in a while swapping insults with Charlie McCarthy or being rebuffed by Mae West.

Although off at the moment, Fibber McGee and Molly had a run on FEN a few months ago. Ewing says they had top reception among teen-agers.

Smokey the Bear: planning his funeral

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Smokey the Bear has one of the nation's best known faces, earned over a million dollars, received his own zip code and now Congress has planned his funeral.

He isn't dead yet. But that figures, considering the rest of the Smokey story.

The black bear is now 24 years old and lives in the National Zoo. The Senate approved a House-passed resolution Thursday to return the aging bear to New Mexico when he dies.

"The True Story of Smokey Bear," an official U.S. Government comic book, says he was found in 1950 by forest rangers.

But according to Elliott S. Barker, a retired New Mexico game warden, "Smokey positively was not rescued by forest rangers."

He said in a letter to UPI that it was a state game warden, L.W. Simmons, who found "a pitiful, starving, 5-pound cub," clinging to a charred pine tree. "The soles of his feet were burned off, his seat burned and his hair singed."

Barker says the bear was nursed back to health and given to the federal government "with the stipulation that his life be devoted to forest fire prevention and wildlife conservation."

"It is most unfortunate," Barker continued, "that the forest service for 24 years has ignored the wildlife conservation stipulation 90 per cent of the time in Smokey's publicity."

Publicity has been Smokey's strong point. Through expert volunteer work, he is well known. A marketing research study said about 90 per cent of the population recognized Smokey.

He appears on hundreds of licensed items. A company in Washington even issues Smokey Bear matches. He has earned over $1 million in royalties since 1953. He gets so much mail he has his own Zip code, 20252.

Some say Smokey has gone too far.

Forestry experts such as John Mensch of the National Forest Products Association, say fire can be a "useful silvicultural tool," but he admits "Smokey has done a great job in carrying our message about the horrors of uncontrolled fire."

The Forest Service says that between 1942 and 1973, the number of man-caused forest fires has dropped by 50 per cent and the acreage lost has been reduced by 90 per cent.

"Smokey Bear," said a spokesman, "is credited with saving the United States more than $16 billion in timber."

In appreciation, Congress is preparing for his eventual burial.

The only hangup was in the House Agriculture Committee, where some members, fearing children would be upset, tried to send Smokey to "that big honey tree in the sky" instead of letting him die. Their wording did not prevail.

Dodgers start series on winning note

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

CINCINNATI — Steve Garvey, hottest of the Dodger hitters against arch-foe Cincinnati all season, kept his bat smoking Friday night.

The stocky first baseman smashed a three-run homer off Don Gullett in the first inning. It proved to be enough as the Dodgers defeated the hard-hitting

KTTV Chane 11, 11:15 a.m.

Reds 3-1 in front of 51,083 disappointed Cincinnati fans at Riverfront Stadium.

The victory extended the Los Angeles lead to 3½ games, four in the all-important loss column. It also gives the Dodgers a 10-3 edge in season competition between the two clubs.

"There was no way I thought that homer would stand up," Garvey told the horde of writers crowding around him. "So many things can happen after that. I didn't even get excited about it."

But the compact slugger admitted he was excited by the time the game ended. Garvey now is massaging Reds' hurling to the tune of .347 with three home runs and 13 runs batted in 13 games.

With a double to go with his round-tripper in four times at bat, Garvey now is batting .325 overall. He has 97 runs batted in on 28 doubles, three triples and 19 homers. He has scored 83 runs.

"Gullett was trying to keep the ball inside," Garvey related. "I hit it, lost it in the lights, saw Pete Rose looking up and toward the stands and figured it must be gone."

The ball hit the cement facing on the row of seats above and behind the left-field fence, which is 375 feet away. There was no doubt about its destination from the time he hit it.

Gullett (15-10) went into the contest holding a 12-4 lifetime edge over the Dodgers. But his trouble, if he has any, usually comes in the early innings.

Bill Buckner, making one of his few starts against a lefthander, started it with a one-out double. He advanced to third on a wild pitch while Gullett was in the process of walking Jimmy Wynn. Garvey jumped on Gullett's first pitch to open and close Dodger scoring.

Sparky Anderson, who had been quoted as saying that the Reds must win four of the six remaining games with the Dodgers, took the loss philosophically.

"We still have five games," the Reds' manager reminded writers. "We had men on base every inning in this game except the third. I still think the pennant race is going down to the last day."

Anderson watched his team leave 15 runners stranded against Don Sutton (14-9) and Mike Marshall. Five times the Reds left two runners on. They had the bases loaded when the game ended.

Sutton departed in the eighth inning after giving up a home run to Dan Driessen and a single to Cesar Geronimo.

Walter Alston wasted no time in summoning Marshall.

"I didn't ask him (Sutton) if he was tired," Alston replied in response to a question. "I knew I had to make a change. But he did tell me he was tired after I brought the other fella (Marshall) in."

Marshall, appearing in his 91st game, received credit for the 20th save. But it wasn't easy. He got out of the eighth although walking a second runner on base.

Vinci makes Poly debut tonight

By BILL LANGLEY
P-B Sports Editor

FRESNO — Cal Poly has been doing a lot of talking about its football program since Andy Vinci took the head football coaching job last January.

Vinci has been hailed as a miracle man in leading the University of San Diego to the NCAA Division 3 national playoffs in two years.

The new Poly mentor is also quite a salesman. He has sold the community on his football program and has attracted a number of top-notch recruits to the Pomona campus.

But it's time for the talk to stop and the action on the gridiron to begin.

Ironically, Vinci makes his debut here tonight needing a victory just to keep pace with last year's 4-6-1 Bronco squad.

And his task is tougher since host Fresno State is not looking past the Broncos because of Vinci's reputation and last year's stunning 17-9 upset.

The kickoff at Fresno's Ratcliffe Stadium is 7:30 p.m. with KSOM (1510) carrying the action back to the Pomona area.

Even though Poly should be much stronger thanks to Vinci's recruiting, the new Bronco mentor realizes how tough it will be tonight against Fresno State, a member of the University Division Pacific Coast Athletic Association.

"We're out of our class," Vinci said. "Just look at the talent on paper at the two schools and you can see the difference."

But Vinci isn't conceding. "I'm just saying that to win we'll have to be lucky and take advantage of all their mistakes. At the same time we can not make any physical or mental mistakes," he added.

One of Vinci's concerns is the inexperience of his team at working together as he has a mixture of returnees, San Diego transfers, junior college graduate and freshmen.

"When 10,000 people start screaming for Fresno State, our team will have to forget about the crowd and just play football," Vinci said. "That's where a junior-oriented team like ours can get hurt."

Vinci has an explosive offensive attack behind quarterback Jim Zorn, who is being touted for All-American honors after leading the NCAA Division II statistics last year in total offense.

U.S. cagers whip Russians

SPOKANE, Wash. (UPI) — The U.S. Collegiate All-Stars, with All America David Thompson leading the way with 16 points, scored an impressive 82-61 win over the Soviet Union National basketball team Friday night in a game in which the Americans completely dominated first-half play.

The U.S. combined aggressive defensive play with accurate shooting to build up leads of as much as 23 points in the first half and held the Soviet team to only one field goal for the first 10 minutes of play.

The Americans led at intermission 58-33.

Alexander Salmikov, who scored 36 points against the U.S. in Seattle Wednesday, had trouble all night finding his range and was held to only four field goals. He added nine free throws to finish the night with 17 points—the game high.

The win gave the Americans a 2-1 edge in the six-game series with the Soviets. The teams play again tonight in Spokane before moving East for the final two games.

Sun stages rally to defeat Wheels

YPSILANTI, Mich. (UPI) — James McAlister caught a six-yard touchdown pass from Tony Adams with 4:09 to play Friday night to lift the Southern California Sun to a 19-7 World Football League victory over the winless Detroit Wheels.

The announced attendance was 6,351, but only about 2,000 people actually were on hand to see Southern Cal raise its record to 6-4. The Wheels are 0-10, and Detroit club owners met earlier Friday to complete the necessary legal requirements to sell the team, probably next week.

Detroit took advantage of an interception by Dave Walker, his second of the game, to take a 7-3 lead with 3:49 left in the third quarter. The interception put the ball on the Sun 31 and six plays later Sam Scarber bulled 19 yards for a touchdown.

but "there's no way he won't go through with it."

Robert Edward Knievel, 58, an auto dealer in Butte, Mont., said Friday he talked with his son the previous night and his impression was that Evel "kind of wishes he'd never started the whole thing in the first place."

The elder Knievel, who said the whole family was very concerned about the risks in Sunday's "jump," said Evel thought the stunt had gotten very big and knew it was very dangerous.

"I've been trying to talk Evel out of a news conference arranged by this sort of thing for 10 years," he told jump promoters. "But he's been committed to it for years and there's no way he won't go through with it."

Rain saves Evert, Billie Jean wins

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (UPI) — Billie Jean King defeated Julie Heldman to stumble into the women's singles final at the U.S. Open tennis championships Friday, and Evonne Goolagong was within two games of upsetting top-seeded Chris Evert when the match was stopped by rain.

Billie, 30, reversed her three set loss

KNXT Channel 2, 12 p.m.

to Miss Heldman in the third round last year with a 2-6, 6-3, 6-1 victory, while Evonne, who has not lost to Chris in three previous matches on grass, led Miss Evert 6-0, 4-3 and serving, when a steady drizzle sent the players scurrying to the locker room.

The match was interrupted at 2:15, but officials waited until 5:50 before giving up on a possible resumption of play Friday. The match will be completed Saturday.

Miss Goolagong, who has won all the major titles with the exception of the U.S. Open, was unhappy about the stoppage with victory within her grasp, but referee Mike Blanchard, after allowing Chris to serve the seventh game of the second set, ordered the center court covered to the dismay of a capacity crowd of more than 14,500.

The crowd waited patiently for play to resume, but the drizzle continued, although other parts of the New York area reported the rain slackening.

Daylight conditions, however, remained reasonable and the die-hard fans contented themselves by raiding the various concession stands to keep out of the damp.

Billie Jean did not play like a woman who has won five Wimbledon and three Forest Hills crowns in the first set against Miss Heldman, the girl who bounced her in the third round last year when Ms. King was suffering from flu and heat exhaustion.

Although Billie Jean denied she had last year's result on her mind, she was tentative in everything she did and failed to get many first serves in.

But her great experience got her back into the match and midway through the second set she came to the net to punch home winning volleys.

Billie Jean held for 1-1 in first set and then did not hold another service. She was within two points of trailing 2-1 in the second set, but saved a break point in the fourth game and came from love-40 in the next to break service for a 3-2 lead. Julie hit back at love, but Billie Jean came back again to break at 15 and then won nine of the next 10 games for match.

"I couldn't believe myself in that first set," said Billie Jean. "I did everything wrong and still did everything right."

Billie Jean said she could not get the adrenalin flowing, but midway through the second set "I said to myself 'you've come so far so don't blow it. Concentrate, get your balance (seat) behind the ball.'"

That's just what she did and her power overcame the softball tactics of her opponent.

Bruins picked to down Vols in '74 opener

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — The UCLA Bruins will be favored Saturday to turn a trick they haven't been able to turn in three previous tries — beat Tennessee on Volunteer State soil.

The nationally televised game, with a 1:20 p.m. PDT kickoff, will be the first test of two new veer offenses, and the debut for UCLA's new head coach Dick Vermeil.

KABC Channel 7, 1:15 p.m.

All-SEC quarterback Condredge Holloway, highly touted this season as a Heisman Trophy candidate, will lead the Tennessee attack. The Bruins, who were the nation's top rushing team in the wishbone offense last season, will be led by scrambler John Sciarra.

Vermeil, who took over when Pepper Rodgers moved back to Georgia Tech last winter, came to the Bruins after four years at Stanford, stints with the Los Angeles Rams under George Allen Tommy Prothro and Chuck Knox, and one previous stay at UCLA under Prothro.

Tennessee head coach Bill Battle, launching his fifth season with the Vols, said he expected the game to be a real test of his rebuilt defenses.

"The UCLA game will answer a lot of questions about our defense," Battle said. "You can learn a lot about how strong you are when you go up against a team that moves the ball the way UCLA does."

Vermeil said he was not bothered by being rated the favorite in the game. He said that he would have preferred to have played the contest in California, but added that the move to Tennessee to fit television scheduling would just give his players move incentive to play their best.

The Vols and UCLA have met four times in the past. Tennessee won all three games played in their home state. The Bruins won a West Coast game for their only victory.

UCLA was 9-2-0 last season, and has the edge in experience with 33 returning lettermen from the squad. Among them are Sciarra, who carried 72 times last season for an average of 6.9 yards per carry, split end Norm Anderson, one of Sciarra's favorite targets, and running back Russel Charles.

The only other pre-season ranked teams making their 1974 debuts are No. 10 Houston at Arizona State and No. 18 Tulane, which plays host to Mississippi at night plus a day game involving No. 16 North Carolina State, which plays at Wake Forest.

At Syracuse this afternoon, Frank Mloney makes his debut as Orange-men coach against Oregon State.

In another night game Memphis State plays at Louisville.

New Mexico counting on Steve Myer

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (UPI) — They've changed a lot of things on the University of New Mexico football team in the past nine months—the coaching staff, the offense, the defense, the uniforms and the attitudes.

Bill Mondt, a former assistant at Colorado and New Mexico, was named head coach last December. The only other member he kept off Rudy Feldman's staff was defensive coordinator Del Wight.

Mondt has thrown out the wishbone offense in favor of a pro-style and he went to a monster back defense. The uniform change was just part of the changing attitude and changing image.

"My attitude has never been so great," said defensive end Greg Jones, a member of UPI's pre-season all-WAC team. "Coach Mondt makes it so the players feel responsible and like they are part of the team."

Mondt's team will center on the success of the conversion from the running offense to passing. The key to that will be junior college transfer Steve Myer from Mt. San Antonio Junior College in California.

"He has made a great transition to our football team," Mondt said. "He is a great leader and very skilled. It's a big jump from junior college ball to the Western Athletic Conference, but we feel he will make it."

His prime receiver will be freshman Preston Denard at split end and senior Ken Lege and Gil Stewart, who transferred to New Mexico along with Myer from California, battling at wide receiver. Seniors Chester Goodson, tailback, and Toby Parris, fullback, a pair of 5-9 runners, are the expected starters in the backfield.

The strong point for the Lobos is their offensive line, where center Curtis Akins, who set out last year, returns to the spot he held as a sophomore.

Ken Brown, who started at center last year, is a guard along with two-year starter Edgar Bell and Ricky Haury and Mike Andrakowicz at the tackles. Haury may miss the season because of a knee he injured in practice last week.

Mondt feels the defense will be stronger, if for no reason other than the fact it will work against the passing game in practice.

"We got burned a few times last year, but I think part of that was due to the fact we ran the wishbone and our guys practice against it all week so they weren't used to covering complex pass patterns," said Mondt.

Back on defense are returning starters Greg Jones and Robin Cole at the ends; middle guard Bill Bassetto; and deep backs Randy Rich, Rick Jones and Ron Wallace. Jones, Bassetto and Rich all started the past two years.

"I don't think there is anybody on our schedule we aren't good enough to beat and I don't think there is anybody we've already beaten," said Mondt. "We don't have a chance to slide into our schedule if we are going to have a good season."

The Lobos open with three games at home, including WAC opponent Colorado State in the first one followed by Texas Tech and WAC favorite Arizona.

Packers acquire John Schmidt

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (UPI) — The Green Bay Packers acquired veteran center John Schmidt from the New York Jets Tuesday, putting new pressure on regular Packer center Ken Bowman.

There have been rumors that Bowman is on his way out as a Packer because of his position as the Packers' player representative and his militant stance during the recent players' strike.

Johnny Wonder's QUESTION CORNER

Q. "HOW DID THE BULLDOG GET ITS NAME?"

ZAYDA ORTIZ
PUNTA SANTIAGO HEAD
PUERTO RICO

THE BULLDOG GETS ITS NAME BECAUSE IT WAS BRED MANY CENTURIES AGO FOR FIGHTING BULLS, OR BULL-BAITING.

JOHNNY WONDER'S PUZZLE BOOK: 60 pages of fun and games. Order your book now. Send $1.25 to Puzzle Book, (9¢ this newspaper), P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

The bulldog is a strong, short-haired dog with a pug nose and wide, powerful jaws. The bulldog gets its name because it was once bred for the sport of bull-baiting, a cruel sport popular in England in the 1600s. Because of his pushed-in nose, the bulldog was able to hang on to the unfortunate animal's ears or nose with his strong teeth and still be able to breathe. Often, a bear was used in the place of a bull. When this cruel sport was outlawed, the bulldog was used for dog-fighting. It was called a "Pit Dog" or "Pit Bull."

Today the bulldog, though still brave, makes a gentle and friendly pet. Bulldogs are slightly pigeon-toed and have many wrinkles on their faces. A bulldog may weigh from 40 to 50 pounds. It is Great Britain's national dog, as well as mascot of the British navy.

Here's wonderful news! A pocket radio, camera, World Almanac globe or other fine prize will be awarded to the first youngster sending in a question used here. Send your question and your age to Johnny Wonder, (c/o this newspaper), Box 1335 (DA), Santa Cruz, CA 95061.

World of animals

Jellyfish tentacles can injure animals

By DR. FRANK MILLER

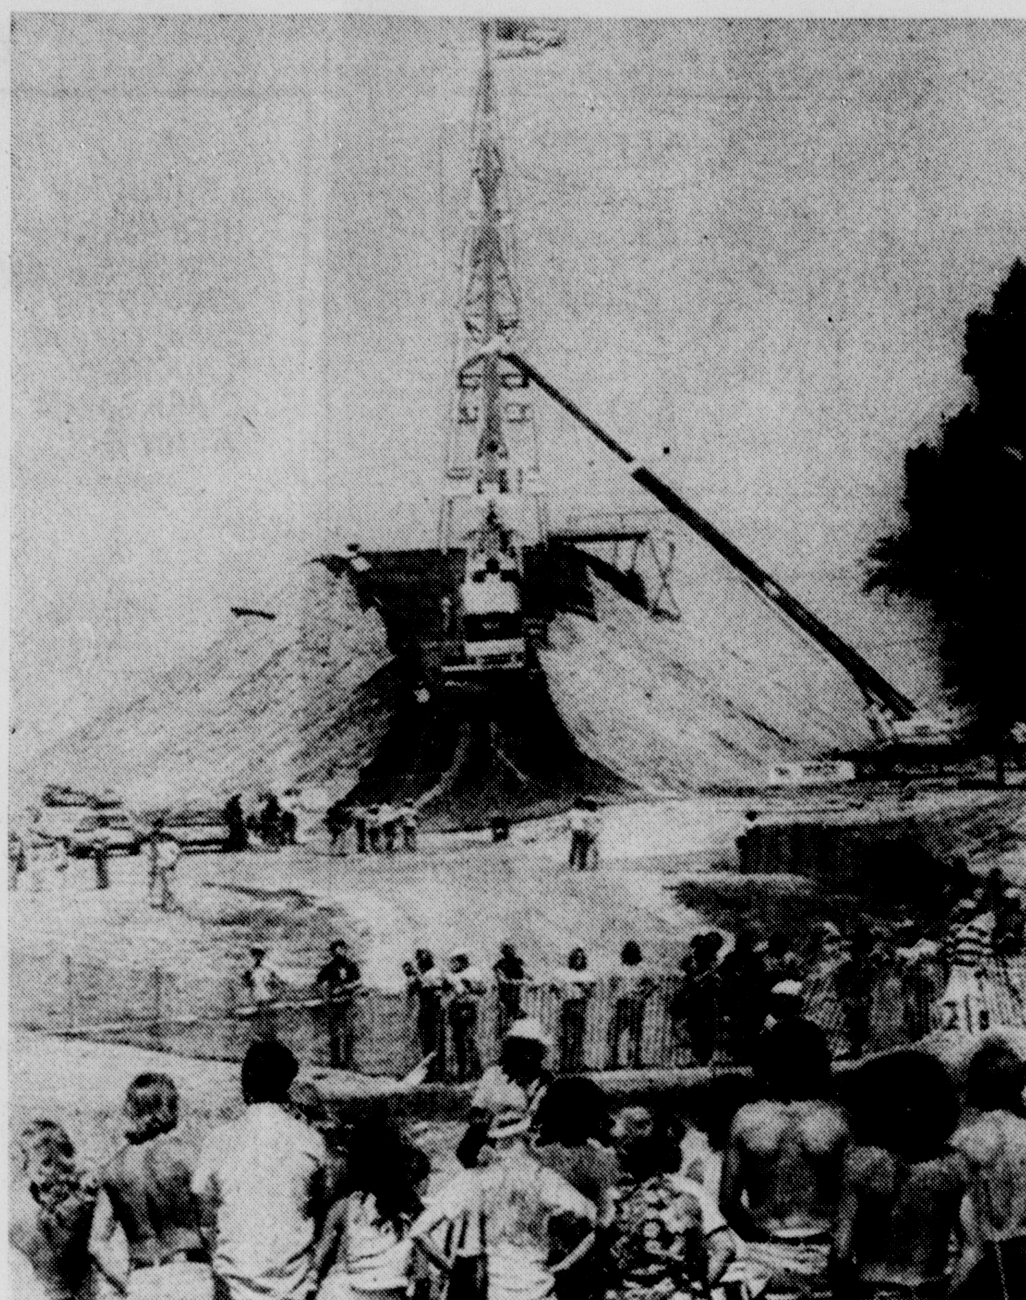

DEAR DR. MILLER: Would appreciate the answer to this question for future reference. Fortunately for Cleo, our dog, she finally recovered, herself, about the time we were ready to come home from our vacation. What happened was Cleo was running with me on the beach when she found this huge orangish blob which I learned later was a jellyfish of some kind. Within a few minutes she began to fuss with her face. Within an hour or two it was swollen some and her eye got all red and sore. She really had a terrible time with it for a couple of days but we gave her aspirin which is all we had there and babied her a lot and she gradually got over it. My question is, can an old dead jellyfish possibly cause that kind of trouble? Or was it just coincidence? — E. D.

Dear E. D.: The tentacles of some jellyfish are capable of inflicting serious stings whether the animal is alive or dead. In fact, these stinging tentacles, even when separated from the jellyfish for some time, may still be capable of inflicting multiple severe stings. An animal swimming in water where these jellyfish are present could be so severely stung it might not even make it to shore. Fortunately, most dogs are less severely affected than man as, obviously, their coat provides considerable protection. Since there is no specific antidote for jellyfish venom, immediate treatment would consist of washing the affected area with copious quantities of clean water, if available. Follow up on skin areas by swabbing with alcohol. From that point prevent pain and self-mutilation. You are fortunate that Cleo's eyes didn't suffer permanent damage. Any animal injured in such a manner should really be taken to a veterinarian no matter how inconvenient it may be to find one, particularly when stings are extensive or when the eyes are involved, for although an antidote does not exist, the symptoms can be treated and the damage minimized.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Our cats are crazy for pumpkin pie. They like it best with whipped cream, of course, but will take it without. Any reason why they can't have such a dessert? — O.E.

Dear O.E.: While whipping cream, would, obviously be contraindicated if your cats were corpulent, the pie itself should provide them with no particular problem as an occasional after (their) dinner treat. It would certainly be preferred to many desserts they might choose. Felis domestica (catus) is not supposed to have (sweet-tasting) taste buds. If not, some, but by no means all, presumably do have a sweet tooth — or two.

NOT MUCH LONGER TO WAIT — Spectators line the approach to launch ramp where daredevil motorcyclist Evel Knievel will attempt his skycycle jump over Snake River Canyon at Twin Falls Sunday.

Instant city is created at site of Evel Knievel jump

By BILL BUCY

TWIN FALLS, Idaho (UPI) — Several thousand motorcyclists and other early arrivals have created an instant city around the launch site for Evel Knievel's rocket ride over the Snake River gorge Sunday.

They camped in tents, vans, cars, trailers, campers, under tarps or out in the open in tree-studded farmland several hundred feet from the south rim of the quarter-mile-wide canyon.

During the day, they sunbathed in 80 degree heat, consumed thousands of cans of beer and bottles of wine, watched motorcyclists compete in the preliminaries to a $125,000 race being held in conjunction with Sunday's "jump," and stood around talking about their trips to southern Idaho.

Bone-weary bikers, some of them on the road nearly a week to reach the launching area about two miles northeast of this farming town of 22,000, just sat and rested.

Leonard Rossin, who left Rochester, Minn., last Saturday, finished his 1,600-mile ride Thursday. He arrived just before James Yorkley, who started west from Kansas City on Sunday.

The promoters of Knievel's jump collected a $25 admission fee as the fans turned into the launching area. They expect 50,000 people.

"Our most serious problem so far has been skinny-dipping at Shoshone Falls," said Twin Falls County Sheriff Paul Corder, adding that swimmers had donned clothing when asked by officers.

Corder said he instructed his deputies to "use discretion and a low key approach" in dealing with the crowds drawn by the jump and by the County Fair being held this weekend in Twin Falls.

Bob Arum, president of Top Rank, Inc., the promotion firm which has guaranteed Knievel $6 million for the stunt, said that ticket sales were booming, both at the scene and at 275 theaters in the United States and Canada where the ride will be shown on closed circuit television.

"Exhibitors report sales are going gangbusters — doubling and tripling what they had in at the start of the week," he said. "The exhibitors expect to go capacity or near capacity."

Knievel, 34, was at his Butte, Mont., home.

State should register all voters: Fong

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Assemblywoman March Fong, the Democratic nominee for secretary of state, has proposed that the state take over the responsibility for registering California voters.

Mrs. Fong told the Sacramento Journal Chamber of Commerce that a statewide registration program would help increase the number of eligible Californians who register to vote. The counties currently register voters.

"The state, in cooperation with the counties, should assume responsibility for assuring that every eligible citizen who wants to register is in fact registered," said the Oakland lawmaker who would become the state's chief elections officer if elected secretary of state.

Mrs. Fong said three possible methods of operating a statewide registration should be considered. They were statewide canvassing of homes at advertised times, registration by postcard through the mails, and a statewide automated registration system.

"I do not believe that the burden for registration should rest with the government and not with the citizen," Mrs. Fong said.

Suspected agent

Carrasco hostage cool throughout

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (UPI) — The Texas Department of Corrections director says Mrs. Linda Woodman, one of the hostages Fred Gomez Carrasco and two other convicts seized in an 11-day escape attempt, was so cool her captors suspected her of being an undercover agent.

TDC Director W. J. Estelle Jr. said Thursday two of the convicts were able to veto Carrasco's plan to put Mrs. Woodman, the 44-year-old prison librarian, inside a wooden escape shield because of their suspicion about her role.

"Gonzalo Cuevas said he wanted no part of having Mrs. Woodman inside the shield when they left the prison library," Estelle said.

"Because Mrs. Woodman remained so cool and composed throughout the ordeal, Cuevas became convinced that she was working for the FBI or Texas Rangers. Rudy Dominguez (the third convict) backed him up. This may have saved her life."

Carrasco and Dominguez died Aug. 3 as they left the prison library in the shield. Officials charged that Carrasco, Dominguez and Cuevas — who escaped with minor injuries — murdered two women hostages inside the shield when they saw they had been intercepted.

But Estelle said that upon the insistence of Cuevas and Dominguez, Mrs. Woodman was released the previous day. She brought out the convicts' demands to prison officials.

"I can't praise Mrs. Woodman enough," Estelle said. "When she was released we wanted her to go to a hospital. But she said she wanted to give us information about conditions in the library — conditions which might save the remaining hostages."

"Her information proved most helpful. Then she called us next day to tell us she had hidden a razor blade inside a library book. She even remembered the pages where she had placed it. She wanted to make sure that some inmate didn't find it after the escape attempt was over."

"I asked her what she would have done with the razor blade. She said that if she had been put inside the shield, she planned to use it to cut fuses on the crude bombs which the convicts told her they planned to take with them."

The doctor comments

Rh negative factor does have solutions

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.C.
DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a 24-year-old woman. I would like to know about the Rh negative factor. I have one child, he was a 7-month pregnancy, but I didn't have any trouble in his delivery. I have Rh negative blood, and I would like to have another child. Different people have told me it is dangerous for a second child since I have the Rh factor. My husband has type B. I also have a heart condition, but my heart specialist said I could have more children. Could you tell me the facts of Rh blood? I do not want to take any chances if it is dangerous.

DEAR READER — This is a problem that shouldn't exist today. It is preventable. Did you know that 12 per cent of the couples in American marriages are between an Rh negative woman and an Rh positive man?

The Rh factor is a substance that most people have in their blood. Such a person is Rh positive. If you don't have the Rh factor and it gets into your body, for example from a transfusion of Rh positive blood, you develop an immunity to Rh factor. It is literally a foreign body, and the body takes measures to reject it.

When the prospective mother is Rh negative without the factor and her developing baby is Rh positive (which means the father had to be Rh positive) some of the Rh positive cells formed by the baby will leak across the placenta to the mother's circulation. These sensitize her to Rh positive cells. She becomes allergic, so to speak, to Rh factor. If the baby is also Rh negative (about two out of five in such a union will be) then there is no problem.

But when the baby is Rh positive the antibodies developed against the Rh factor by the mother get into its circulation. Here they start an allergic-like reaction that destroys the baby's Rh positive red blood cells. If the process is severe it will result in a still birth. Less severe instances may cause jaundice and other damage to the baby.

It doesn't matter that your husband is type B. What counts is whether he is Rh positive. It is important whether your first baby is Rh negative or positive. If he is negative you may not yet have antibodies against the Rh factor. If you get pregnant and the next baby is Rh negative there will be no reaction. It takes a sensitized Rh negative mother with an Rh positive baby to create the problem.

Now, sensitization can be prevented by giving the mother an injection of protective immunoglobulin within 72 hours of delivery of an Rh positive baby. This will protect the mother and baby for the next pregnancy. Here is the catch, though. You must also have this done after an abortion or miscarriage, whether it was for medical reasons, social reason, or spontaneous. If the pregnancy is two months along and is an Rh positive fetus it will sensitize the mother. If there is any question about the age of the fetus the shots should be given to the mother. The protective vaccine carries no significant risk.

You have left some unanswered questions—your husband's Rh factor (positive or negative), your baby's Rh factor, and whether you have had other pregnancies.

In the thirty years that Smokey Bear has been telling us to be careful with fire, we've cut the number of forest fires we start in half.

But we still start over 100,000 careless fires every year.

Someday, one of two things will happen, and Smokey will stop reminding us to be careful: Either there won't be any more forest fires, or there won't be any more forests.

It's up to you.

Vacation

Back in your own back yard

By ROBERT CAREY
LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI) — Picture if you will downtown Little Rock on a searing summer afternoon. The asphalt is softening and the thermometer on the bank says 101.

Here we come, my wife, my children aged six and two, trooping toward the bank from the concrete parking lot, headed inside to buy travelers checks for the big vacation.

The boys want to play in the fountain in the bank. The youngest wants to jump in. Bank employees smile indulgently. After all, I am a customer.

My wife's instructions to the boys register well below the shouting level, but a prim lady cashier's eyebrows elevate perceptibly. I am already beginning to cramp in the jaws from clenching my teeth.

I am picturing three days down the road: children even worse because they have been sleeping in strange motel beds and the little one has not napped.

I see heads turn in roadside dining rooms when tired and hot little boys begin to push and shove and shout and adult voices chime in telling them they'd better behave or else.

I see misery, despair, fatigue and lost patience. I see thoughts of murder, violence and mass destruction. I see the Great American Vacation ending up as one long and chilling nightmare.

Back in the parking lot, with travelers checks and angry children, the sun has heated the leather seats to the egg frying level. We agree that we have never been so uncomfortable.

Somewhat, I feel, this is not what a vacation is all about. We talked on the drive home, my wife and I, and then like a flash of Zen it hit us. Who needs it?

All our friends thought we were leaving in the morning. The goldfish had been farmed out for the week. We had reservations everywhere. There was Blanchard Springs Caverns to be seen, Dogpatch U.S.A., the grandeur of the Ozarks, marked maps, packed bags, the works.

We canned it all on the spot. We decided not to go and not tell anyone we had not gone. We used all the money to hire babysitters, eat out every night, hit all the movies and lie in the sun.

I bought two rods and reels on sale cheap and started teaching the oldest boy how to fish, something I had promised him for a long time. So we went fishing in the morning, swimming in the afternoon, took naps or read, and then mom and dad went out on the town every night.

No motel costs. No travel costs. The phone never rang and we never saw anyone we knew. It was the best vacation we ever had.

We may do the whole thing next year on purpose.

WHEREAS, the City Council of the City of Walnut adopted Ordinance No. 269 authorizing the City Council to adopt procedures to permit temporary overnight parking of motor vehicles on highways, streets, alleys or public ways as the City Council shall determine; and

WHEREAS, the City Council recognizes that there are situations where a greater number of motor vehicles is present on the property than the garage and driveway were designed to accommodate;

WHEREAS, it is the desire of the City Council to provide relief for persons who properly use the garage and driveway on the property for the parking of motor vehicles yet, because of circumstances of temporary nature are unable to comply with Section 16.1 (a) of the Walnut Municipal Code relating to restriction on overnight parking;

NOW, THEREFORE, the City Council of the City of Walnut does hereby resolve as follows:

SECTION 1. Whenever a resident of the City of Walnut is entertaining an overnight guest or guests, and is without off-street parking facilities for additional vehicles, or whenever other circumstances of a temporary nature prevent compliance by a resident with the provisions of Section 16.1 (a) of the Walnut Municipal Code relating to overnight parking, upon application by such resident, the City Manager, or his representative, may issue temporary parking permits for a period not to exceed five (5) days. Upon a showing of cause by a resident, the City Manager, or his representative, may, prior to expiration of a temporary parking permit, renew said permit for an additional period not to exceed five (5) days. Each temporary parking permit shall be subject to such reasonable one time only. Not more than one (1) temporary parking permit shall be issued by the City Manager, or his representative, for any household within a period of thirty (30) days. Temporary parking permits shall be applied for on such form and contain such information as is required by the City Manager.

SECTION 2. In the event that a resident of the City of Walnut at any time other than during the normal business hours of the City finds that the parking of a vehicle on a public right-of-way will be required prior to the commencement of normal business hours of the City, then the City Council authorizes the following:

(a) The law enforcement officers of the City of Walnut are authorized to grant temporary parking permits to residents of the City, provided that application for a temporary permit is made, as provided in Section 1, above, by the resident to the City Manager or his representative, the first working day after the temporary authorization is obtained from the law enforcement officer.

(b) The law enforcement official shall advise the City Manager's Office of temporary parking authorizations which are granted by the law enforcement official.

SECTION 3. This resolution shall be effective on September 1, 1974.

SECTION 4. The City Clerk shall certify to the adoption of this Resolution and cause same to be published as required by law.

APPROVED AND ADOPTED this 14th day of August 1974.

It Happened in Pomona

An 1892 sports promotion

By Doc Peirso

Hell is not the only place where good intentions play an important part in the building program. Towns are also subjected to the good intention wishful thinking type of community growth promotion.—Pomona is no exception.—And today I will tell you about one of those good intention building projects—a sports promotion that was dreamed up by some of our pioneer Pomonans who were convinced this community would one day become the number one sports center for the Greater Pomona Valley. It happened 82 years ago; which only goes to show you how prophetic those early day sports promoters, really were. For down through the years since then, Pomona has had its fair share of nationally known athletes who have gone out into the sports world and brilliantly spread the name and fame of this community.

I said those old time Pomonans dreamed up a promotion—and that they did.—And even though it failed to materialize, they deserve some credit for just having suggested that what Pomona needed was a really outstanding sports arena where budding young athletes could practice and demonstrate their abilities.

The matter of a Pomona sports center first came up for discussion in September of 1892, and on the 24th of that month The Pomona Weekly Times carried a glowing article describing the proposed project.

"A meeting is on foot among the wheelmen and baseball cranks of Pomona to secure grounds on the vacant ten-acre tract near the intersection of Ninth and Rebecca streets," the story read. "It is the intention, if suitable arrangements can be made, to lease the grounds for a term of years, form a stock company and enclose a circular track of a quarter mile for the wheelmen and have the baseball grounds within the enclosure and the track. Pomona has some fine amateur ball talent but the boys have been seriously handicapped on account of not having suitable grounds.

Well there you have it—the good intention that might have done for Pomona what the Astrodome has done for Houston. Who knows what happened? Most likely the promoters couldn't sell their stock.

She selects woman
HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI) — Connecticut's first woman candidate for governor has, quite naturally, chosen a woman to direct her campaign.

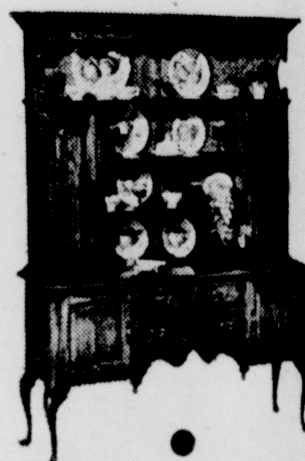

Nancy Lewinsohn of Washington, D.C., administrative assistant to Rep. Ella T. Grasso, D-Conn., is taking leave of absence from her regular chores to lead her boss's campaign.

$1 million 1907 Double Eagle

Visitors to the recent American Numismatic Association convention in Miami, were treated to a glimpse of the world's most-valued coin. The $1 million 1907 Double Eagle.

Actually, a rare specimen of a proposed $20 gold piece, the one-of-a-kind design is recorded as JUDD 1776 pattern coin with a $10 gold coin obverse and a $20 gold coin reverse. It is one of three patterns for a $20 gold Double Eagle designed by Augustus Saint-Gaudens at the request of President Theodore Roosevelt.

The "coin" has a design of exceptional beauty with an extremely high relief. The obverse or head side shows the profile of an Indian girl with a feathered bonnet facing left. Thirteen stars appear above the "Liberty" below in the area normally reserved for the date.

The head was first modeled with an olive wreath in place of the stars but later changed to accommodate the headress in compliance with the President's wishes.

The reverse or tail side depicts an American Bald Eagle flying to the left across the rays of a rising sun. Above is the legend "United States of America" with the date MCMVII (1907) superimposed in the sun below.

Two regular issue coins of different denominations resulted from the design. The Type V $10 Eagle of 1907 and the reverse of the Type IV $20 Double Eagle of the same year.

These first issues of 1907 are unusual in that the traditional motto, "In God We Trust," was omitted due to President Roosevelt's objection to any reference to the deity on a coin. The resulting public outrage prompted Congress to pass a bill in 1908 reinstating the motto on all coins minted thereafter.

Saint-Gaudens died before his designs were put into production. Today they are regarded as the finest ever produced on the coinage of the United States.

Ownership of the 1907 Gold "Coin" is unknown up to the 1940s when it appeared in the collection of F.C.C. Boyd. His entire collection was later sold to a well-known American dealer. It was eventually sold to Egypt's King Farouk for the then high figure of $9,900.

After his abdication in 1922,

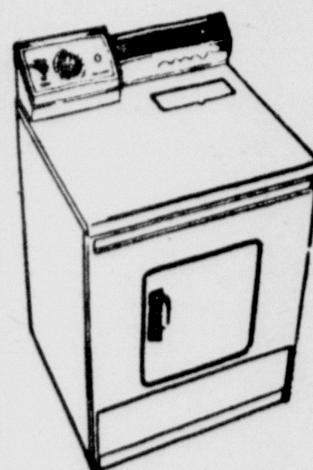

Farouk's collection was sold at private auction in 1954 and the million-dollar "coin" sold to an American bidder for $3,800. In 1956, it was sold again for $10,000 to J. E. Wilkison of Springfield, Tenn. His coin estate was eventually purchased by Paramount International Coin Corporation of Englewood, Ohio, including the 1907 Indian-head Double Eagle shown above.

The present owner recently refused an offer of $500,000 on this unique piece, declaring true market value impossible to estimate.

It is insured for $1 million and transported under armed guard by Brinks Security Service.

Superior Furniture prices are 'suite'

LESTER BOTNICK (L), RICHARD LYNN SURVEY STOCK

New homeowners in the valley can furnish a small home for as little as $288 at Superior Furniture in Montclair.

Superior Furniture, 9135 Central Ave., across from Montclair Plaza, has a package front room set, dinette set and bedroom set available at that price. The $288 buys a sofa, a chair, two end tables, a coffee table and two lamps for the living room; a table and four chairs for the dinette; and a dresser, a mirror, a headboard and two nightstands for the bedroom.

Of course, more expensive furniture sets are sold at Superior Furniture. A $349 bedroom set includes a headboard, two commodes, a mirror and a dresser. The price does not include either mattress or springs. Commodes, headboard and dresser are made of wood, pressed wood, and plastic.

A Ranchero Queen sleeper sofa, russet in color with a vinyl finish, sells for $349. Upholstered in Naugahyde, this sleeper unfolds to make a queen-size bed.

A five-piece modern dinette set features a table with an imitation-wood top and chairs with vinyl upholstery. It can be purchased for $229.

New manager of the Montclair Superior Furniture store is Richard Lynn, 33, a veteran of the Glendora branch of the furniture chain.

Lynn, a tall, modishly-dressed slender man has been manager of the Montclair branch for only three weeks.

There are seven Superior Furniture stores: two in Garden Grove, two in San Diego, one in Glendora, one in Pasadena and one in Montclair. The enterprise has been in operation since 1932. It buys from furniture manufacturers across the country, including Harbor House and Cal Shop.

There are eight full-time employees in the Montclair store. Richard Lynn, in addition to managing the store, also is one of its three salesmen. The other two salesmen are Mark Bernstein and Lester Botnick. Botnick also is credit manager for the outlet.

Superior Furniture has been at its present location in Montclair for 3½ years.

MANAGER of Marzano's Carpets at Superior Furniture, Ed Blum (R)

Immigrants discover joy of living

By WILLISTON WIRT HOME AND HOME AGAIN
by George and Helen Pa-shavsky. Harper & Row, $5.95.

These same authors wrote
"Anything Can Happen," which proved to be a rollicking account of an emigrant from Russian Georgia, with his American wife, who succeeds in the United States.
Now comes just as rollicking a sequel, as George is able to take his wife back to Russian Georgia after a 40-year absence. Will anyone remember him?

Well, he needn't have wondered. For although Russia is now Communist, people are wonderful wherever they are.
Do they get a welcome?

Wow, they sure do! Every day is reception day!

They are completely overwhelmed by old neighbors and relatives, extending a hearty welcome. Trying to name names and recognize faces poses a problem for George.
When he addresses one stranger very respectfully, the man turns out to be his closest pal when they were young. "This is the way it was," George tells his wife.
"See how we Georgians all love one another!"

As memories begin to flood in on George, he recalls his youthful days; and this takes up the main share of the book. George was only six when his mother died in childbirth, and he was then apprenticed to a sword-marker. This didn't pan out, so he took up leatherwork artisan-ry. Jealousy developed, and in a fight he received a leg wound which almost resulted in an amputation. Prospects for the young man improved following service in World War I, as he was able to emigrate to America.

Now, as he returns to Georgia, every turn in the road recalls his boyhood and youth. There are changes, of course. Old folks have vanished from the scene, and the young folks have all grown up. Yet they are his people — his brothers and sisters — cousins, aunts, uncles — all overjoyed to welcome him back, all eager to pick up right where they had left off.

The food is so abundant that doing justice to it becomes a chore. Toasts are so numerous they grow tipsy. It is a reliving of early days when, "all I knew was to be loved and happy."

Yet home for George and Helen is not Georgia. For George is an American citizen, and his heart belongs to this new land where he met his American wife Helen, acquired an American fortune and quite a measure of American fame.

This is a book you can read in an evening. It's all about the joy of living — something we never seem to get too much of!

Irving Berlin: an American success story

By DOUG ANDERSON

IRVING BERLIN By Michael Freedland. Stein and Day, $8.95.

The life of Irving Berlin, now 86, is the kind of story you wouldn't believe if you didn't know it was true.

Where but in real life would a second grade dropout with two days formal instruction in music set a whole country to singing?

Berlin's early life was unexceptionable. Born Israel Ba-line in Siberia, he was brought to the United States at the age of four by parents fleeing a pogrom. His father died when he was eight and he had to go to work to help support his family.

Many American success stories start this way but few of the successes have been as sensational or enduring.

Berlin began his working life as a newsboy but even as a child tunes were singing in his head. He got into music as a singing waiter, a lyricist and then, when he learned to pick out tunes on the black keys of a piano, a composer.

Even as a composer he never did learn to read or write music, or to use a piano's white keys. But he never had a problem finding better educated people who could commit the tunes he hummed to paper.

Over a span of 50 years,
Berlin has written about 3,000 songs, and half of them have been published. Some have interesting histories.

One song that was cut out of the World War I revue
"Yip, Yip Yaphank" for technical reasons came on strong 20 years later under the title
"God Bless America." "Smile and Show Your Dimple" flopped in 1917 but with new lyrics later became "Easter Parade."

A number written to cover a scene shift in "Annie Get Your Gun" was titled "There's No Business Like Show Business."

British show biz buff Freedland, who earlier biographed Al Jolson, tells the Berlin story in simple, straightforward prose and there are pictures to illustrate the text.

Character tells life of author

By SAMUEL I. BELLMAN

MY LIFE AS A MAN by Philip Roth. Holt, Rinehart,
Winston. $8.95.

Since 1962, when he brought out his second triumphal work, LETTING GO (a very impressive novel about fathers and sons, parents and children), there has been something missing with Philip Roth.

Anyone as gifted as he at social irony and domestic dramas of manners, anyone overpraised to the skies and lionized out of countenance by every unoccupied consumer from editor to college bookstore browser, was bound to 'get used up' sooner or later.
And, sooner than one might think, even in the face of the disastrous American Success Syndrome, Roth did 'get used up.'

(SAMUEL I. BELLMAN is Professor of English at Cal Poly, Pomona.)

All of which doesn't say anything about his latest novel, a long-drawn-out, affair, largely autobiographical, and filled to the exploding point with reiterated analyst's couch self-doubts. But to merely sum up this 330-page confession (the main body of it entitled "My True Story," and two short reruns of the main fiction) is to give what is beside the point, as far as what Roth is now doing.

For quite some time, Roth has had nowhere to go, nothing to write about that would bring out his strongest talents for satire and social commentary.

Copyright king

Librarian of Congress Ainsworth Rand Spofford, in 1870, had the Library of Congress take control of the copyright, thus confirming the Library as the national library to which all publications would automatically flow.

The post-immigrant Jewish experience in the Eastern United States, which once filled him with such glee, revul-sion, and inspiration, has been milked dry as a subject and even as an object of ridicule. What could Roth say about it after he had gone all out in "Portnoy's Complaint?"

Well, he could tell the stories of his own marriage(s), liaisons, amours, romances, and domestic nightmares; he could tell about his penchant for beautiful, sexy girls on college campuses and in the byways of Manhattan, Chicago, or wherever else a wunderkind of a young Jewish novelist was taking audiences by storm. And he could tell about his interminable sessions with a transplanted Viennese psychiatrist, the steady outpouring of "What am I going to do, Doctor?" and "How did I get into this mess, Doctor?" Thus, Roth's latest novel, "My Life
As a Man."

The young writing genius, has an incredible talent for getting mixed up with the most disastrous women imaginable, or maybe it's just that he can't develop the kind of stable and satisfying domestic relationships his parents and siblings fell into naturally.

Certainly there's a little of the sex-crazed Portnoy in Peter Tarrap (and the two fictional anti-heroes in Peter's two stories, included here), which would explain his pathological inability to settle down, and his flair for domestic chaos and self-justification of that chaos.

What there is also, in sickening overabundance, is Peter's crybabying about his having gotten stuck with Maureen, a psychopath who practically ruins his already crippled existence.

A novel without a plot, really, "My Life As a Man" concerns a boy who chased women until a real harpy caught him and he insisted on marrying her, only to wind up pleading desperately with her to let him go. Peter's steady complaining and rationalizing about his horrible wife, who finally dies in an auto accident, is what gives Roth's book its shape and form, at the same time that it outlines his artistic deterioration and smallness of spirit.

Build it yourself

Professional table

By STEVE ELLINGSON

You'll get an extra measure of pleasure shooting pool on this do-it-yourself table, every time you think of how much money you saved. The features built into it are found only in commercial models costing from four to five hundred dollars. The high-speed ball return system cannot clog or jam, and the ball box permits easy access to the balls. Another exclusive feature is the curved apron which adds to the appearance of the table and also permits the proper geometric layout of the pockets. Inspect the commercial models, and you'll find that the medium-price tables have straight sides, while the higher-priced ones have curved aprons.

The table shown can be made to live many lives. By covering the top with two hinged plywood panels, you immediately provide the hostess with a large dining table for informal entertaining. It also makes an excellent space for junior's electric train, and a dandy layout table for mom's dressmaking. Even though this is a deluxe, professional pool table, it can be built for approximately $90 with our easy-to-follow plan.

Penny speculators lose their cents

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Hoarders of pennies honing to make a financial kill for the copper might as well forget it.

The Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco said Thursday that the hoarders were in for a "letdown" because the freemarket price of copper has plunged from a record $1.52 per pound in April to a present low of 82 cents.

"Hoarders anticipated the price of copper would rise above $1.51 a pound," bank economist Yvonne Levy said,

"making the metal value of the coin greater than its face value."

WHITE

The overwhelming preoccupation of all chess strategy is crassly materialistic: separate the opponent from his pieces! But winning material is usually only a final moment in a long arduous struggle. Often, in fact, the win of material becomes anticlimactic.

Nevertheless the final harvest is almost always a distinctly pleasurable event. For it is the culmination and reward for one's work. And an aesthetic denouement furnishes an extra bonus.

High-ranking among the aesthetically preferable wins are those in which the opponent is forced willily-nilly to seal his own doom. When the defensive effort only tightens

the snare, when the defender's pieces only interfere with each other, the resulting irony seems to heighten the aesthetic appeal.

Sometimes the end may come simply and unexpectedly abruptly, as in the position given in the first diagram.
Black's position is rather strung out. His knight is protected only from afar by his queen, and he can barely meet white's Q-K8 check with R-Q1. In fact it seems that 1.
P-Q4 would win immediately for white, if his own knight weren't "on the loose."

But look again (see diagram two). An immediate 1.
P-Q4 does win, since black's defensive resource, 1... QxN, interferes with the defensive interposition of the rook. After 1. P-Q4, QxN; 2.
Q-K8 check, the queen is lost.
An unusual self-pin.

Our third position borders on the fantastic in diagram 3.

Labor Day is past for another year. And that usually means the end of summer for many people.

But, on Catalina Island, the and October are really beautiful.

Catalina shifts to an even slower pace, and the weather is just great.

If you didn't make it to Catalina Island this past summer, why not plan now to enjoy a visit for a day or two, or even a week or longer.

We want to stress this impor-

Bike boom opens 'Pandora's box'

Story by Mike Butowitsch
P-B staff writer

Photos by Sid Fridkin
P-B photographer

Increased interest in bicycling has opened a Pandora's box of problems for enforcement and education agencies. Bicycle accident figures are the fastest growing traffic accident category, according to the Automobile Club of Southern California.

In the valley, a random sampling of retail bicycle outlets demonstrated the upsurge in interest. Not all stores contacted were willing to reveal sales figures, but all testified to the bicycle boom.

Bob Adams, manager of the sporting goods department at the Pomona location of Sears, would not report actual sales figures but did claim increased sales of bicycles. He said that for the past two to three years, Sears has been the worldwide leader in bicycle sales. He also felt that the market for bikes has changed dramatically from single speed children's bikes to the more sophisticated 10-speed adult bicycles.

Bob Dobbie, manager of the Pomona location of Coates Schwinn Bicycles, indicated that sales have increased at least 25 to 30 per cent over three years ago. Additionally, he pointed out that bike sales had increased close to 50 per cent during the peak of the energy crisis.

The California Vehicle Code states that everybody riding a bicycle is subject to all the duties and has all the rights of an automobile driver.

According to statistics complied by the California Highway Patrol, the statewide incidence of bicycle-related injuries has risen from 5,443 in 1969 to 10,843 in 1972. Further data shows the majority of injuries and fatalities occur in the 5 to 14 age group. The largest number of fatalities occur during peak travel periods of 2 to 3 p.m. (after school hours) and 4 to 5 p.m. (rush hour traffic).

An overwhelming majority of bicycle accidents (76 per cent in 1971) occur when the bike rider is in the 14 and under age group.

Locally, bicycle accidents are causing some concern to law enforcement agencies, but not all cities have witnessed an increase in incidents.

The Claremont Highway Patrol office and La Verne police report accident increases from 10 in 1973 to 17 through August of this year and 10 in 1972 to 13 through August, 1974, respectively.

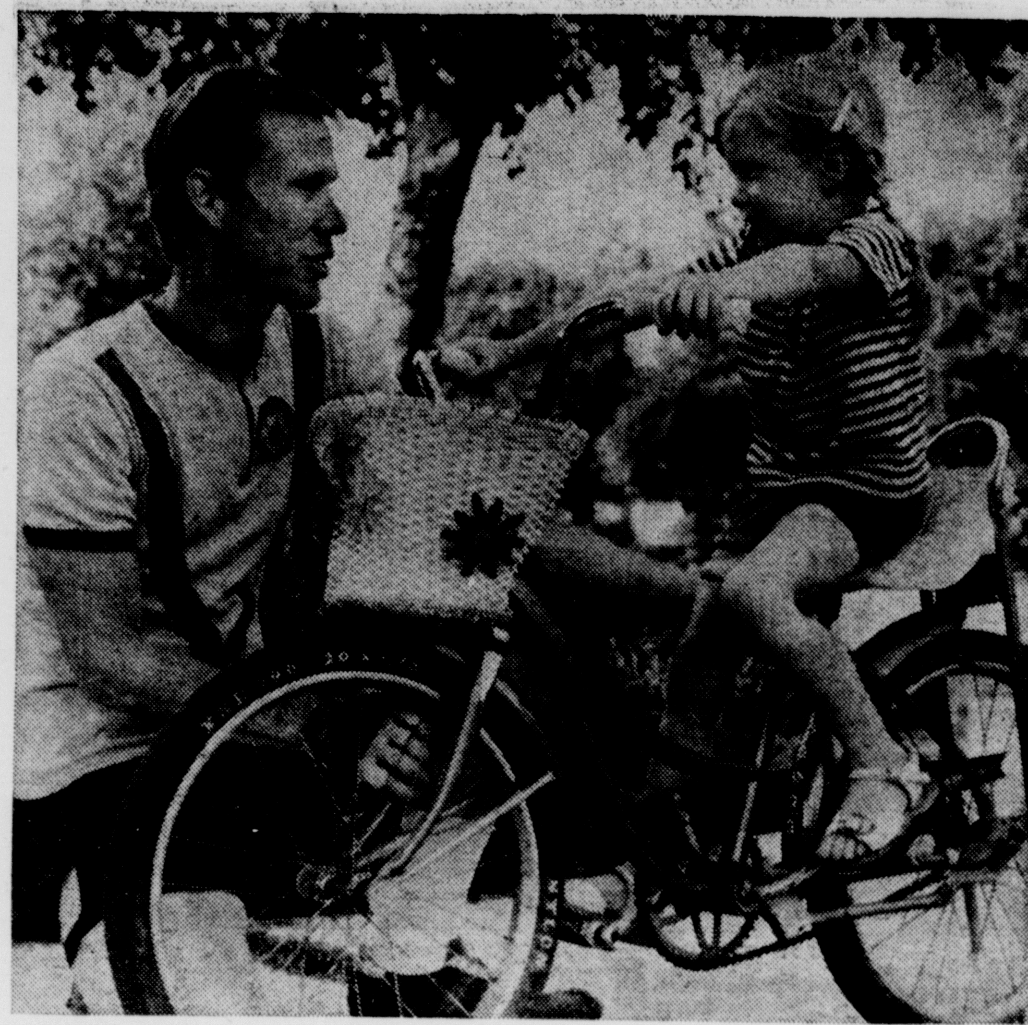

Claremont, Upland, Chino and Montclair police report some decrease in accidents this year. Claremont had 14 accidents in 1972, seven through July. Upland had eight in 1972, none yet this year. Chino lists seven in 1972, and five through July. Montclair had 20 in 1973 and nine through August, 1974.

Pomona reports 39 accidents with 32 injuries up to June. Ontario police report 73 accidents with 60 injuries, including one fatality in 1973.

The general increase in bicycle-related accidents and the inclusion of bicycle riders into the vehicle code has placed an increased responsibility on local law enforcement agencies, both in enforcement and education on bicycle safety.

All local law enforcement agencies have established bicycle safety programs. Most go out directly to schools preferring to reach the younger children in elementary schools. Most programs are handled on an on-call basis, where the schools request a bicycle safety presentation. Films and lectures are employed, as well as handouts stressing safety points.

The Pomona Police Department, among others, works in cooperation with the city Parks and Recreation Department to sponsor bicycle rodeos. These rodeos are held at each elementary school in the city and combine a safety lecture with a bike riding skills test. Lt. Joe Cenoz feels that the skills test is beneficial to all youngsters and is comparable to the driver's test given to potential automobile drivers. The rodeo test skills ranging from proper balancing techniques to proper stopping.

Phil Norton gives daughter Cheryl, 4, a few pointers on bike riding.

Officer Tom Fitch says the Claremont CHP office, in addition to a bicycle safety program presented at schools, has a "parental notification program," whereby juveniles 15 or younger are cited for violations, but not sent to juvenile court. Instead, their parents are sent notification off the violation. The juvenile can receive up to three of these citations without being sent to court. Youths over 15 may be cited according to the officer's discretion.

Claremont and La Verne run similar programs. La Verne calls in an offending juvenile with his parents on Bicycle fatalities statewide increased from 69 in 1969 to 128 in 1972. Injuries in the same period went from 5,443 to 10,843.

Saturdays for a bicycle safety presentation.

Upland gears its program to the first 45 days of school and towards the end of school when police officers specifically go to those children entering the fourth grade during the next year. In Upland, only those youngsters in fourth grades and higher are allowed to ride bicycles to school.

Capt. Coy Estes, commander of the Upland police service division, says youths cited for violations are generally asked to bring their parents to the station for a safety presentation.

All the officers spoken to stressed the need for education of both bicycle riders and parents. None expressed a desire to see bicycle riders licensed. Most emphasized the problems inherent in any licensing system.

(Read John Terveer's Bicycling Tips every week in your Sunday Progress-Bulletin.)

Many people seem to feel that the establishment of bicycle trails will eliminate or at least reduce bicycle accidents. Officer George Dynes, of the Claremont Police Dept., however, points out that separate bike paths, while removing the bicycle rider from the general flow of traffic, do not eliminate the major points of conflict, or accidents, the ever-present intersection. Bicycle paths may aid the rider, but won't remove the hazard entirely.

In addition to individual cities' bike paths, there is presently an effort to construct an area-wide bicycle trail system. The system would cost $315,260 to construct and is awaiting state and federal funding.

The problem of bicycle accidents has received statewide attention and in June the Office of Traffic Safety sponsored a bicycle safety seminar for those involved in enforcement and education areas.

One conflict which cropped up often was the scourge of bike riders—local ordinance inconsistencies. Speakers at the conference criticized the lack of uniformity in bicycle codes and pointed out the vast differences in local and state ordinances. Dr. Margaret Jones of USC specified the need for uniformity before education can cope with the problem.

The need for enforcement and education is evident. The need for individual responsibility is even more necessary, according to those most intimately involved with bicycle programs.

HEADING WEST — Italian producer Dino De Laurentiis, right, has produced such films as "Serpico" and "Death Wish" and is looking for new worlds to conquer. He moved to New York from Rome two years ago and is now shifting to Los Angeles. With him is his director, Michael Winner. Other De Laurentiis hits are "Bitter Rice" and "La Strada."

Dino De Laurentiis

Film director heads west

By RICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — He speaks English well, but not great. And yet Dino De Laurentiis seems to understand the American mentality better than many natives.

The Italian producer moved his base of operations to New York two years ago and now is in the process of another move, to Los Angeles. The man who has been called the father of the Italian movie industry is now the uncle of the American movie industry.

In his Roman heyday, De Laurentiis made movies which were as Italian as pasta — "La Strada," "Bitter Rice" and such—but now, as one of the Hollywood boys, he's turning out very American films.

At the moment he's represented at the box office by the Charles Bronson film, "Death Wish," which may be the most controversial film of the year because of its revels in excessive violence, for one thing. No matter on which side of the controversy you stand there's no denying that this picture is very much an American film.

Yet De Laurentiis thinks of it as an international film. He's a businessman in the movie business and looks at film as a commodity. He knows that, to return the ultimate profit, a film must do as well overseas as it does here.

"There should be a 50-50 split between the income from a film," he says. "Half should come from the United States, half from the rest of the world."

He says there is "a trick" to making international movies, a trick he has long since mastered.

"Some movies," he says, "don't appeal to foreign audiences. Take 'Save the Tiger' and 'Thieves Like Us'—both beautiful films but they do not interest the audiences in Europe. You have to have stories that are universal. I believe my movies 'Serpico' and 'Death Wish' are universal stories and will do very well in Europe."

De Laurentiis is preparing many more films. He's always had a reputation for grinding them out and he's doing the same now. It doesn't seem to matter to him, professionally, whether he works in Italy or in the United States.

He was 52 when he suddenly decided to quit Italy for New York. That was two years ago. His decision is about the same as though Abdul-Jabbar would suddenly announce he was going to play basketball for the Naples Bucks.

"It was not something I had long been planning," he says. "The decision came to me in a flash. Like that. I just realized I had done what I could do in Italy. There was nothing more for me to do there."

"It was a lucky thing I made that decision. My timing was right. My only regret is that I didn't make the move 10 years before."

He says there is no more Italian movie industry. They can't—or won't—make any more international films, he says. They just make local films, for local Italian audiences. De Laurentiis says that's how it is throughout Europe these days.

"The French make movies for Frenchmen, the English for Englishmen," he says, "and the Italians for Italians. The only place where they are making international movies is here. You people in Hollywood have the people, the stories, the actors."

"And the biggest box office attractions throughout the world these days are all Americans—McQueen, Newman, Redford, Bronson, Eastwood, Beatty."

He adds that there are no female stars who mean anything at the international box office.

De Laurentiis says that the decline of European filmmaking coincided with the audiences throughout the world getting tired of sub-titles. He says that, today, audiences everywhere want to see movies in their native tongue—or else in English. It's getting better daily. But he says the rest of his family speaks it fluently.

His wife, actress Silvana Mangano, is the daughter of an English mother and grew up speaking both languages. And he sent his four children to American schools in Rome.

"I did that," he says, "because I realized the world was getting smaller and they should know English. When I first began traveling to the United States, the flight took 24 hours. Then it was 18, then 14, then 12, now 10 pretty soon three or four. The world keeps getting smaller and English is important for Italians to know."

He's currently looking for a house in Los Angeles but he
